North Pole Mercury Holds, Marbletown Posts a Minus 36

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Mighty low—that's what the mercury read this morning as Ulster County went into its fifth straight day sub-zero temperatures.

For those who thought it couldn't get much colder, Jack Frost staged an overnight performance which plunged early morning readings into the -30's in some sections of the county and to -40 at Windham in Greene County.

-14 in Kingston
In the city, the overnight low was a minus 14 which broke more records and kept the month of January with not one day above freezing. A spokesman for the city engineer's office said this is the longest period of deep freeze ever recorded by that department. The previous low for Jan. 12 was established at three above zero in 1958. Warmest temperature for the date was 48 degrees in 1946.

The extended period of bitter cold is beginning to take its toll. Ontario Schools were closed today and Kingston city and parochial schools opened an hour late. In Ellenville, temperature readings ranged from -33 just outside the village to a -26 at the state police station. The village building which houses the police department succumbed to the cold with frozen pipes hampering smooth operation.

Minus readings around the area included, if you can stand to hear, 36 in Marbletown; 33 in Kyserville and Tillson; 31 in Stone Ridge and Allgerville; 26 at West Shokan; 24 at the Ashokan Reservoir; 25 at Zena; 16 at Blue Mountain and 10 at Saugerties.

Hot spot of the county is Belleayre Ski Center where the temperature overnight was 16 above while neighboring Pine Hill suffered in 20 below. Mountain top readings this morning were at eight degrees with blue skies up above and packed powder under skis.

River Traffic Normal
On the Hudson River, traffic is continuing at a normal pace for this time of year thanks to the efforts of U. S. Coast Guard cutters Red Beach and Mahoney. A ship was stuck off Turkey Point yesterday but was freed within an hour by the cut-guard escort yesterday without incident.

River ice is estimated to be eight to 10 inches thick. A spokesman for the coast guard said today the continued cold is a help in maintaining the open channel as the ice remains stationary and does not shift into the open water as the tides change. Good to know the cold is a help to someone.

All of State in Grip

The severe cold has all of New York State in its bitter grip. Up in the Adirondacks where cold winters are nothing new, reports come in of weird meteorological doings. According to Associated Press, Raybrook Meteorologist Robert Kemp threw a glass of 140-degree water into the air and it froze before it hit the ground. Kemp reported a -30 in a valley and a -33 on a hill there with fog composed of small particles of ice suspended in air. Shades of Dr. Zhivago's ice palace. Eastern New York State is in continuing at a normal pace for this time of year thanks to the efforts of U. S. Coast Guard cutters Red Beach and Mahoney. Prospects Look Real Good for Kingston In $750,000 Code Enforcement Plan

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Kingston has "a real good shot" at getting a $750,000 federal code enforcement program, according to officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development who met with Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan yesterday afternoon.

Three sections of the city are under consideration with 75 per cent of the 10th Ward given priority. Also discussed were two sections of the Fifth Ward, the North Street-Willow Street-Cordts Street area and the Tompkins Street to Ponckhockie section.

The Seventh Ward was discussed but rejected as a code enforcement grant project because federal officials thought it was "too far gone." They recommended the city's filing for a demolition grant for some 20 buildings in the Seventh, followed by a rehabilitation request.

No state funds are involved under this latest plan to improve Kingston. The federal government will pick up three-quarters of the tab, the city the rest.

The Freeman interviewed John Burke, codes specialist in the Department of Housing and Urban Development in New York.

Commission Commended

Burke commended the Kingston Housing Code Commission of which George E. Radcliffe is the chief investigating officer and Joseph Saccoman and Mrs. Lorraine Longendyke are inspectors. Burke said code enforcement in Kingston has "come a long way in the past year and we're very happy to see this."

Burke said the federal government would pay the administrative cost of the three-year program, if approved. He estimated the city would need an additional pair of full-time housing code inspectors, a project director, a rehabilitation specialist and a secretary, plus an office. This could run in the neighborhood of $35,000 a year.

Covers Streets, Lights

This latest federal plan is a sweeping program in which the city could put in new streets (if needed) replace old ones, install new sidewalks, lights, traffic lights and trees. The program does not include the installation or improvement of water and sewer lines. Any work done in that area would be paid for by the city.

The program is basically an aid to code enforcement in the lack of money for which, plagues many cities, Kingston included.

It will begin with the inspection of every home in the project area and the notation of code violations. Cost estimates will then be made and discussed with the homeowner. If the owner does not have the money to pay for the improvements he will be eligible under the program for three per cent government loans for up to 20 years. If the owner meets certain poverty standards (for instance, a yearly income of less than $3,000) he is eligible for an outright grant of up to $1,500.

Burke noted that the emphasis of the program is on home improvements and that a proper ratio of home improvement to municipal improvement should be observed by the city. "This is a safeguard against a city using all the money for new streets and lights which merely are avenues to rapidly deteriorating slums," Burke said.

The present project will encompass some 400 to 500 buildings in the city. Burke was asked about a time factor for approval of funds.

"I've urged the mayor and his planning firm, Raymond and May Associates to proceed as rapidly as possible with their preliminary plans and forward them to us in New York. If there are any problems we can work them out before the final application is made," Burke said.

Mayor Garraghan, commenting on the proposed program today said, "We've got the ball rolling in Kingston, at last. I'd like to commend George Radcliffe and his housing codes department for a job well done. I expect the same fine service from that department in the future when this plan becomes a reality."

Ambulances To Suspend Police Calls

By RAY TYSON

Ambulance service for police emergency calls will be suspended as of Jan. 15 except in cases of cash on delivery, The Freeman learned.

This knowledge came to light when Roy Decker, 70, a resident of the Hotel Eichler, was refused service yesterday by both Doctors and Fatum's Ambulance and Oxygen Service. Decker, police noted, was transported in critical condition to Kingston Hospital by a radio patrol car. His condition was listed as serious today by hospital authorities.

"It's simply a question of money. We're a business like any concern," a spokesman at Fatum's Ambulance declared. "Approximately six months ago," the Fatum spokesman said, "Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan guaranteed us reimbursement on police calls requesting assistance for the dispossessed. For three months everything went fine, but today there are three months of vouchers sitting on Garraghan's desk and until we are paid, service will be suspended unless it is cash on delivery."

Fatum's said the mayor and his Common Council have been notified in writing of the pending termination. The present ambulance pick-up rate is $20. Decker, arrested 72 times since 1941 on public intoxication charges, was taken ill Thursday, 4 p. m., at his hotel room overlooking Railroad Avenue, police revealed. Officials noted that Decker has received frequent medical attention.

Doctor's Ambulance explained the refusal to transport Decker saying, "We have taken him so many times to the hospital when assistance wasn't actually required. Authorities throw him and us out. It's a

Executive Members
Elected to serve with him as members of the Democratic City Committee executive board were: Florence Klein, Jeanette Kelly, Vincent T. Berardi, Paul Mills and Irving Bell.

A resident of Kingston for the past 35 years, Lyle graduated from Kingston High School, served with the U. S. Army from 1956 to 1952 and has operated a grocery store on Albany Avenue.

Active for a number of years in community affairs, he has been president of the Men's Democratic Club, committeeman from the Second Ward, officer of the Third Degree, K of C; comptroller, Fourth Degree K of C, and a member of the American Legion Post 150.

He was first appointed city clerk by former Mayor John J. Schwenk in 1965.

The BPW and Snow Removal

The expected arrival of two new snow removers Monday should clear Kingston's snow-clogged street problems and also quiet those voices criticizing Department of Public Works head, Charles Cole.

Cole and his department have come under increasing fire lately as the heavy snow of two weeks ago remained (for the most part) on city streets.

Rumors of Common Council intentions to consolidate Cole's Department of Public Works and Thomas Wickman's Engineering Department have been aired.

The Freeman was told today by a BPW spokesman that those two departments have been consolidated for over 40 years and that the engineering department is part of the BPW. One person who is solidly behind Cole is Mayor Raymond W.

Garraghan who singled out Cole for special praise in his Mayor's Message-Jan. 1. At the time, Garraghan commended Cole for installing a time clock for employees that, according to Garraghan, saved the city $18 the first day it was in operation.

Garraghan termed the consolidation of the two departments under Wickman's supervision as "a ridiculous idea." Said the mayor, "Tom Wickman knows engineering and I know the oil business, but neither of us knows how to run the Department of Public Works. Charlie Cole does."

Garraghan blamed the BPW's snow removal problems on lack of proper equipment. "The department of public works is working with two snow removers, one that dates to 1945. The new one dates to 1947," Garraghan said.

The mayor said the two trucks "had had it." He pointed out that the BPW had ordered two Oskosh snow removers in September of last year that were supposed to be delivered by Dec. 1.

"Those old trucks are fine going downhill," Garraghan said, "but going uphill, forget it. They should have been replaced 10 years ago. The city has paid enough in repairs over the last 10 years to buy new trucks."

In other snow removal news, Alderman-Elect Peter C. Fisher (R-10th Ward) has proposed the setting up of snow routes "in an effort to seek a way of avoiding in the future, the atrocious condition of city streets that residents have recently been forced to endure."

simple. "Main thoroughfares of the city would be designated snow routes. Upon public announcement of snow emergency, no cars would be permitted to be parked on those streets," Fisher said.

John Machione (R-12th Ward), Common Council minority leader, concurred with Fisher in theory. Said Machione, "There should be a pattern of snow removal and there should be a clean sweep. Some streets only get plowed once."

Machione said the only solution to snow removal was the complete cooperation of the Department of Public Works, the Police Department and the citizens. "Everyone has solutions for snow removal," Machione said. "But until you have the cooperation of the BPW, police and citizenry, it'll be a problem every winter."

Mayor Garraghan, reached at his office, disclosed that bills for ambulance assistance were mailed to his office. The mayor said, "We pay all legitimate bills promptly. Dr. Gorman said he feels the New York State Democratic Committee will have a most important role in selecting a candidate for U. S. Senator to oppose Republican Senator Jacob K. Javits. The nod will be given at the committee's convention to be held between March 26 and April 2 at a site to be disclosed.

"This is the first time the Democrats haven't had a statewide convention so the state committee has an awesome responsibility," he advised alluding to discord among the Johnson and Kennedy forces.

Dr. Gorman said he "is 100 per cent behind the President." Lyle only last month received a unanimous and standing ovation from the Common Council with praise of his work coming from both sides of the aisle.

Ambulance service for police emergency calls will be suspended as of Jan. 15 except in cases of cash on delivery, The Freeman learned.

Picking Coin Boxes

Nab 'Phone' Suspects

A string of telephone booth coin thefts which over the past few months took in the major hotels and restaurants on the borch belt circuit ended yesterday with the arrest of two men by State Police, Ferndale Barracks, Liberty.

"Picking" telephone coin box locks at Grossinger's and other noted hostilities, the two, a Brooklyn and a Queens man, netted between $10,000 and $12,000, police estimate.

Arrested on a tip from two Liberty High School area youths who spotted the men at work were: Joseph Paul Romano, 26, alias Joseph De-

Rosia, 2524 Crescent Street, Astoria, L. I. Romano is reported to be a service station manager, employed by a relative.

Also, Gerard Sudlitz, 26, of 2102 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, a film processor.

The high school youths, after observing the men tampering with phone equipment, noted their description and the license plate number of the car in which they departed.

State Police, Liberty Police and investigators from the Telephone Company Albany office meanwhile had been investigating the case following significantly noticeable and sometimes drastic drops in the amount of money collected from coin boxes by the company, Ferndale State Police said.

Following the tip, police were then able to locate the men place them under surveillance and later make an arrest.

Romano and Sudlitz were charged with criminal tampering, petit larceny and possession of burglary tools, all misdemeanors.

Sudlitz was released on bail on the local charges and Romano was returned to New York City where police took him into custody for other charges pending against him there.

Dr. Pauker President

Hospital's Medical Staff Meets

Introduction of new officers, a talk on continuity of cardiac care in community hospitals, and reports of committees were features of the annual meeting Kingston Hospital Tuesday night at the Skytop Restaurant.

Presiding was Dr. Sidney C. Pauker, who was elected president for 1968, succeeding Dr. Arthur G. Carr, 2nd. Other officers are Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, vice-president, and Dr. Fred S. Carr, secretary.

Guest Speaker

Speaker was Dr. Edmund Reppert, associate professor, New York University School of Medicine. He was introduced by Dr. Rakov, chairman of the program committee, who also reported on educational activities of the past year. Other program committee members are Drs. Herbert Derman, William E. Askue, Smalldon and Howard B. Mass.

Kingston Hospital's Board of Trustees was represented at the meeting by Edward C. Byman, president; Amos R. Newcombe and G. Herbert DeKay.

Dr. Herbert E. Gade, chairman of the tissue committee, reported 770 operative cases reviewed during the past year. Other committee members are Drs. Robert Aquilina, Derman, Henry C. Eichelmann and Kurken V. Kirk.

Dr. Elbert F. MacFadden Jr., chairman of the infection committee, noted that the committee had been expanded to include Dr. Schwartz and representatives of Central Service, operating room and city laboratory.

Medical Charts Reviewed

Dr. Walter Levy, chairman, reported that the Medical Audit Committee reviewed 260 completed medical charts during the year. Serving on the committee are Drs. Norman H. Burg, Peter D. Corsones, Paul G. Hoveman and John R. Roberts.

Other committee chairmen reporting included Dr. Harder, utilization committee, and Dr. Derman, transfusion committee.

Dr. Askue reported that the Kingston Hospital Poison Control Center treated 54 patients and recorded 298 instances of transmitting advice to attending physicians by telephone.

The chart committee report was given by Drs. Pauker and Lewis M. Neporent.

City Hospital Meeting Monday

The annual meeting of the Kingston Hospital Corporation will be held Monday at 4 p. m. in the lounge of the Student Nurse Residence.

Trustees will be elected to three-year terms and the report of Edward C. Byman, president of the board of trustees, will be submitted.

Arrest Contractor, Linked to Marcus Case

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents have arrested a Long Island contractor on charges of plotting the murder of a government witness in the kickback case against former city Water Commissioner James L. Marcus.

The agents seized the suspected plotter, identified as Robert H. Roden, 39, at his Uniondale home about 8 p. m. Thursday night. But they declined to identify the target of the alleged plot.

A staff member of the U.S. attorney's office said the name of the witness could not be disclosed "for security reasons." He said the witness's life could still be in danger.

Roden was to be arraigned today before a U.S. commissioner.

He was specifically charged with "obstructing justice by arranging for the murder of a government witness in a criminal case."

In announcing the arrest, an FBI agent said there might be more arrests in connection with the alleged plot "depending on how it goes with Roden."

The arrest was made under a sealed complaint and warrant obtained earlier in the day by U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau.

Sealing legally prevents anyone from discussing the details of the case until the complaint is made public at the arraignment.

Morgenthau declined to say whether the witness who allegedly was to have been murdered was one of the six men indicted in the Marcus kickback case.

Marcus, a friend and confidant of Mayor John V. Lindsay, was arrested Dec. 13 with five other men including Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, described the FBI as a Mafia member.

They were charged with participating in a $40,000 kickback on an $835,000 city contract to S.T. Grand Inc. for cleaning the Jerome Park Reservoir in the Bronx.

The indictment charged that Marcus, who had resigned as water commissioner a week earlier, acted under Corallo's direction in awarding the contract without competitive bidding.

In turn, said the indictment handed up by a special federal rackets grand jury, S.T. Grand kicked back $40,000 to Marcus, Corallo and two other men.

Grand's president, Henry Fried, also was indicted on the kickback charges. Fried refused Wednesday to waive immunity before a Manhattan grand jury probing Marcus' private business affairs.

The refusal, under law, means the city and state must terminate all contracts with companies which Fried serves as an officer, contracts which run into millions of dollars.

Hopes U. S. Will Benefit

HHH Ends African Safari

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
TUNIS (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey believes his grueling tour of nine African nations will bring the United States substantial long-term benefits in confidence and good will among African nations.

But the most significant result of his high-speed, 26,500-mile safari—which ended Thursday—could be a sharpened awareness in Washington of Africa's towering political, social and economic problems.

Some African leaders began to doubt that the United States really cares about their continent after Congress cut foreign aid and private American interests blocked commodity agreements which would have stabilized the market in certain African staple products.

Humphrey, who returned to Washington Thursday, convinced the leaders he met that the Johnson administration is determined to fight for more aid and to press for the rapid conclusion of commodity agreements for cocoa, coffee, rubber and other products.

The vice president repeatedly pointed out that the African countries should seek channels of assistance other than direct aid, including the Export-Import Bank, the Food for Peace Act, the African Development Bank and private investors.

He agreed with African leaders who complained that congressional action limiting economic aid in Africa to 10 countries was unjust, unreasonable discrimination.

Humphrey's time was limited, so many pro-Western and all politically hostile countries were omitted from the itinerary.

Humphrey signed aid agreements in three countries: a loan of $3.5 million to Somalia for a water supply system, an Export-Import bank loan of $36.5 million for a hydroelectric project in the Ivory Coast and shipments of $12 million worth of tobacco and food to Ghana.

He also promised Zambian

President Kenneth Kaunda that the United States would help pave 300 miles of highway from Lusaka, the Zambian capital, to Dar Es Salaam, in Tanzania. The road would compete with a railroad line which has been offered the two countries by Red China.

He found Kenya, Zambia, Ethiopia and Ghana the most promising countries for American private investment. He noted the staggering needs of the African countries in housing, education and health services but could only promise that these needs would not be forgotten in Washington.

He came away convinced that the entire American aid effort in Africa should be streamlined and modernized and that some of it at least should be coordinated with European countries, possibly within the framework of the North Atlantic alliance.

He was shocked by working conditions on American-owned rubber plantations in Liberia and agreed to try to help free labor movements penetrate into the plantations company unions.

At the conclusion of his trip, Humphrey took back a burning but unanswered question: Can the pro-Western African countries hope to maintain their stability after the present generation of experienced, moderate leaders is gone?

It was one question he could not put to any of the leaders with whom he talked.

Arrest Man After Death Of Parents

BATH, N.Y. (AP) — A one-time mental patient was in jail today, awaiting grand jury action on a charge that he beat his elderly parents to death with a piece of firewood.

Calvin Roe, 40, was charged with murder Thursday, about 12 hours after, police said, he killed his father, Leon Roe, 78, and mother, Mary, 76, in their frame home five miles south of this Southern Tier village.

Roe was arraigned in the Steuben County Jail here by a peace justice. A spokesman for the district attorney's office said the case would go to a grand jury early next week.

A deputy sheriff and a State Police sergeant took Roe into custody after a brief struggle outside the home before dawn Thursday. The suspect was barefoot in the 15-below-temperature, they said.

Investigators said they were called after Calvin's brother, Ellsworth, 51, responded to a telephoned plea for help from his mother that was ended by her scream.

They quoted Ellsworth as saying he found his brother holding the two-foot-long piece of wood and that Calvin came toward him menacingly.

Police said both Mr. and Mrs. Roe suffered skull fractures.

Calvin, they said, was a patient at Willard State Hospital for about a year four years ago. His father had decided to try to recommit him Thursday, a move that had Calvin's approval, they added.

Picking Coin Boxes

Nab 'Phone' Suspects

A string of telephone booth coin thefts which over the past few months took in the major hotels and restaurants on the borch belt circuit ended yesterday with the arrest of two men by State Police, Ferndale Barracks, Liberty.

"Picking" telephone coin box locks at Grossinger's and other noted hostilities, the two, a Brooklyn and a Queens man, netted between $10,000 and $12,000, police estimate.

Arrested on a tip from two Liberty High School area youths who spotted the men at work were: Joseph Paul Romano, 26, alias Joseph De-

Rosia, 2524 Crescent Street, Astoria, L. I. Romano is reported to be a service station manager, employed by a relative.

Also, Gerard Sudlitz, 26, of 2102 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, a film processor.

The high school youths, after observing the men tampering with phone equipment, noted their description and the license plate number of the car in which they departed.

State Police, Liberty Police and investigators from the Telephone Company Albany office meanwhile had been investigating the case following significantly noticeable and sometimes drastic drops in the amount of money collected from coin boxes by the company, Ferndale State Police said.

Following the tip, police were then able to locate the men, place them under surveillance and later make an arrest.

Romano and Sudlitz were charged with criminal tampering, petit larceny and possession of burglary tools, all misdemeanors.

Sudlitz was released on bail on the local charges and Romano was returned to New York City where police took him into custody for other charges pending against him there.

Arrest Contractor, Linked to Marcus Case

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents have arrested a Long Island contractor on charges of plotting the murder of a government witness in the kickback case against former city Water Commissioner James L. Marcus.

The agents seized the suspected plotter, identified as Robert H. Roden, 39, at his Uniondale home about 8 p.m. Thursday night. But they declined to identify the target of the alleged plot.

A staff member of the U.S. attorney's office said the name of the witness could not be disclosed "for security reasons." He said the witness's life could still be in danger.

Roden was to be arraigned today before a U.S. commissioner.

He was specifically charged with "obstructing justice by arranging for the murder of a government witness in a criminal case."

In announcing the arrest, an FBI agent said there might be more arrests in connection with the alleged plot "depending on how it goes with Roden."

The arrest was made under a sealed complaint and warrant obtained earlier in the day by U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau.

Sealing legally prevents anyone from discussing the details of the case until the complaint is made public at the arraignment.

Morgenthau declined to say whether the witness who allegedly was to have been murdered was one of the six men indicted in the Marcus kickback case.

Marcus, a friend and confidant of Mayor John V. Lindsay, was arrested Dec. 18 with five other men including Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, described the FBI as a Mafia member.

They were charged with participating in a $40,000 kickback on an $835,000 city contract to S.T. Grand Inc., for cleaning the Jerome Park Reservoir in the Bronx.

The indictment charged that Marcus, who had resigned as water commissioner a week earlier, acted under Corallo's direction in awarding the contract without competitive bidding.

In turn, said the indictment handed up by a special federal rackets grand jury, S.T. Grand kicked back $40,000 to Marcus, Corallo and two other men.

Grand's president, Henry Fried, also was indicted on the kickback charges. Fried refused Wednesday to waive immunity before a Manhattan grand jury probing Marcus' private business affairs.

The refusal, under law, means the city and state must terminate all contracts with companies which Fried serves as an officer, contracts which run into millions of dollars.

Hopes U. S. Will Benefit

BY MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

TUNIS (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey believes his grueling tour of nine African nations will bring the United States substantial long-term benefits in confidence and good will among African nations.

But the most significant result of his high-speed, 26,500-mile safari—which ended Thursday—could be a sharpened awareness in Washington of Africa's towering political, social and economic problems.

Some African leaders began to doubt that the United States really cares about their continent after Congress cut foreign aid and private American interests blocked commodity agreements which would have stabilized the market in certain African staple products.

Humphrey, who returned to Washington Thursday, convinced the leaders he met that the Johnson administration is determined to fight for more aid and to press for the rapid conclusion of commodity agreements for cocoa, coffee, rubber and other products.

The vice president repeatedly pointed out that the African countries should seek channels of assistance other than direct aid, including the Export-Import Bank, the Food for Peace Act, the African Development Bank and private investors.

He agreed with African leaders who complained that congressional action limiting economic aid in Africa to 10 countries was unjust, unreasonable discrimination.

Humphrey's time was limited, so many pro-Western and all politically hostile countries were omitted from the itinerary.

Humphrey signed aid agreements in three countries: a loan of $3.5 million to Somalia for a water supply system, an Export-Import bank loan of $36.5 million for a hydroelectric project in the Ivory Coast and shipments of $12 million worth of tobacco and food to Ghana.

He also promised Zambian

President Kenneth Kaunda that the United States would help pave 300 miles of highway from Lusaka, the Zambian capital, to Dar Es Salaam, in Tanzania. The road would compete with a railroad line which has been offered the two countries by Red China.

He found Kenya, Zambia, Ethiopia and Ghana the most promising countries for American private investment. He noted the staggering needs of the African countries in housing, education and health services but could only promise that these needs would not be forgotten in Washington.

He came away convinced that the entire American aid effort in Africa should be streamlined and modernized and that some of it at least should be coordinated with European countries, possibly within the framework of the North Atlantic alliance.

He was shocked by working conditions on American-owned rubber plantations in Liberia and agreed to try to help free labor movements penetrate into the plantations company unions.

At the conclusion of his trip, Humphrey took back a burning but unanswered question: Can the pro-Western African countries hope to maintain their stability after the present generation of experienced, moderate leaders is gone?

It was one question he could not put to any of the leaders with whom he talked.

Dr. Pauker President

Hospital's Medical Staff Meets

Introduction of new officers, a talk on continuity of cardiac care in community hospitals, and reports of committees were features of the annual meeting Kingston Hospital Tuesday night at the Skytop Restaurant.

Presiding was Dr. Sidney C. Pauker, who was elected president for 1968, succeeding Dr. Arthur G. Carr, 2nd. Other officers are Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, vice-president, and Dr. Fred S. Carr, secretary.

Guest Speaker

Speaker was Dr. Edmund Reppert, associate professor, New York University School of Medicine. He was introduced by Dr. Rakov, chairman of the program committee, who also reported on educational activities of the past year. Other program committee members are Drs. Herbert Derman, William E. Askue, Smalldon and Howard B. Mass.

Kingston Hospital's Board of Trustees was represented at the meeting by Edward C. Byman, president; Amos R. Newcombe and G. Herbert DeKay.

Dr. Herbert E. Gade, chairman of the tissue committee, reported 770 operative cases reviewed during the past year. Other committee members are Drs. Robert Aquilina, Derman, Henry C. Eichelmann and Kurken V. Kirk.

Dr. Elbert F. MacFadden Jr., chairman of the infection committee, noted that the committee had been expanded to include Dr. Schwartz and representatives of Central Service, operating room and city laboratory.

Medical Charts Reviewed

Dr. Walter Levy, chairman, reported that the Medical Audit Committee reviewed 260 completed medical charts during the year. Serving on the committee are Drs. Norman H. Burg, Peter D. Corsones, Paul G. Hoveman and John R. Roberts.

Other committee chairmen reporting included Dr. Harder, utilization committee, and Dr. Derman, transfusion committee.

Dr. Askue reported that the Kingston Hospital Poison Control Center treated 54 patients and recorded 298 instances of transmitting advice to attending physicians by telephone.

The chart committee report was given by Drs. Pauker and Lewis M. Neporent.

City Hospital Meeting Monday

The annual meeting of the Kingston Hospital Corporation will be held Monday at 4 p. m. in the lounge of the Student Nurse Residence.

Trustees will be elected to three-year terms and the report of Edward C. Byman, president of the board of trustees, will be submitted.

Lest They Kill USA

Drawing on the decline and decay of their cities as the forerunner of the fall of the great civilization in world history, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York warned that if America cannot solve the problems of its cities, then America may not be able to survive as a nation. His advice was given as vice chairman of President Johnson's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

From his own experience as head of the country's largest city, Lindsay recalled that through massive assistance from business, finance, industry and labor, the metropolis was able to enjoy "a second straight 'cool summer'" while other cities, large and small, were wracked by riots and disorders. This civic cooperation was the most important sociological development in America in decades, Lindsay said, and only in such a coalition does there exist a favorable future for cities.

At the same time, the Mayor called for "a five-year war on poverty, deterioration and despair," with government and private business forming the coalition needed to win. Hopeful but not overly encouraging, he added, there is an increasing awareness of the problem in the private sector and even some preliminary affirmative action, such as the financing offered by the insurance industry to erect public housing and to underwrite new business to make jobs its ghettos.

However, the battle and its impact are not localized in the ghetto area, the Mayor said. They range over the rising problems of crime and narcotics addiction, air and water pollution, mass transit, traffic congestion and better schools. They are countrywide, national headaches.

Besides the civic coalition, Lindsay asked for sharing by the cities of federal and state taxes to enable them to provide the needed services. Like most of the other liberals in office, he seems to think the public till is limitless, the taxpayers must pay and pay. Certainly the cities can be saved without bankrupting the country and its people.

4 Million Wealthholders

There were 4.1 million wealthholders in the nation—those with average gross assets of $60,000 or more with a net worth of $53,000 each—according to a study made by the Internal Revenue Service several years ago and just made public by the National Consumer Finance Association. Since the survey was made, the gross asset figure has risen to perhaps $75,000 and the net worth to perhaps $65,000.

One in each 15 families is a much smaller base of limited wealth than one would expect. For they are the largest taxpayers as well as the largest wealthholders and they bear the burden of the taxes paid to government on all levels.

A personal balance sheet for these 4.1 million would show their assets and liabilities, as all balance sheets should. Under long-term assets, they would include the family's house, if it owns one, car, furniture, and such personal possessions as silver, paintings, cash values of insurance and profit-sharing plan; under current assets would be checking account and savings account.

Liabilities would include long-term liabilities, such as the balance of the mortgage on the house, the balance of payments on the car and any other installment buying items; current liabilities would be those due within a month, presents, allowances, insurance premium, current household expenses, medical and dental costs.

It is a good idea to strike a personal balance sheet at this time of the year and note the changes—hopefully for the better—from year to year. That is one way the 4.1 millions got to be wealthholders.

"Lover, Come Back To Me!"

David Lawrence Says

Number of Unemployed Increased by 100,000

WASHINGTON — Comparative percentages on unemployment from year to year do not tell the whole story. For, although the Bureau of Labor Statistics has just announced that the unemployment rate dropped in December to its lowest level in nine months, there are actually more people unemployed than there were a year ago.

It is true that the unemployment rate for 1967 averaged 3.8 per cent, which is the same as in 1966, but the number of unemployed rose from an average of 2,875,000 in 1966 to 2,975,000 in 1967. So, while the rate of unemployment or ratio of unemployed to the labor force remains unchanged, the number of persons unemployed increased by 100,000.

Even though more individuals are obtaining jobs than in the preceding years, the unemployment totals still are substantial. This figure is obtained by comparing the total number of persons unemployed in 1948—which was 2,276,000—with the total of 2,975,000 in 1967.

The simple truth is that job creation in America has not yet taken care of the increased number of persons seeking employment. There is some comfort, to be sure in the fact that, as the labor force has been increasing, jobs have been made available for the vast majority. The continuance, however, of nearly three million people on the unemployment rolls year after year is a discouraging aspect of the American economy.

One of the main reasons for the maladjustment and the absence of permanent jobs for lots of people is the short-lived nature of some of the government projects and a shrinking demand for unskilled labor as technology improves.

It will be said, of course, that out of the three million who are unemployed, some don't want to work or are "uneducated" or are trying to get "poverty" assistance without performing any services. It is also true that in homes where husbands are incapacitated or disabled, the wives are working, and children may drop out of school in order to provide funds for the family.

The unemployment totals are to some extent due to the inability of citizens to find their particular localities the kind of work they are able to do. Here is a reluctance to shift from one region of the country to another to seek work. In some areas there actually is a shortage of labor which could provide jobs for some of those who are unemployed and who live at distant points. The problem of how to move the population around to close these gaps has never been solved.

One thing is clear — jobs are plentiful during war years. The nation's lowest recorded percentage of unemployment was in World War II, when it dropped to 1.2 per cent in 1944. The lowest point since then was 2.9 per cent in 1953, during the Korean War. By 1958 the unemployment rate had gone up to 6.8 per cent, and has been diminishing slowly during the last 10 years.

This, however, is a percentage measurement, for the labor force has been increasing steadily. There is, for instance, very little difference between the number unemployed today and the total in 1957. The rate then was 4.3 per cent of the labor force, but there were 2,859,000 unemployed as compared with 2,975,000 in the year 1967—an increase of 116,000.

The rise in the number of unemployed from 2,875,000 in 1966 to 2,975,000 in 1967 is a truly disconcerting figure, and does not justify the optimistic comments which are being made by some economists to the effect that the country is "booming" and that a tax increase is needed to "slow things down." It is probable that, if such restraints were applied to the national economy at this time and government really cut its spending, the number of unemployed would grow considerably. This is why, for political reasons, it is unlikely that any slowing down will be permitted, at least until after the November elections.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Three persons have, over a period of years, asked me how to write an autobiography. This is remarkable, because I have never written one. However, the people are: Maurice Chevalier, Clare Boothe Luce, and Frank Sinatra. I respect each of them for a variety of reasons. Each has a stubborn integrity, and this leads to self-condemnation, which is as evil as self-praise.

Mrs. Luce is a gifted writer, and one evening we had dinner at her home in Scottsdale, Arizona. She had found that sculpting the face of another is one thing; looking in a mirror and chipping at the glassy image of one's own face is impossible. A flamboyant egotist might bring it off as a cover-to-cover love affair with himself. But who would read it?

Her great play was "The Women," just as her finest diplomatic moment was as ambassador to Italy. She was married to Henry Luce, who founded Time Magazine. In candlelight, she was bright and serene, but I was of no help, except in finishing a good dinner. How could I tell her that a good autobiography is a weathered face held up to light and shadow?

She hasn't got one. I was still dwelling on it, at random moments, when Maurice Chevalier stopped by. He was 77, a French dance hall man with an ingratiating smile, a straw hat, and many love affairs. He wanted to write his life story, he said, and would I please write the rules—see you play.

I sat with him over hot tea. A ballpoint pen danced a rigodon on a sheet of paper and I folded it and handed it over. "You won't do it," I said.

"This is a waste of time." He assured me that he would begin at once, back at his home, La Louque, near Paris. I assured him that he would discuss it over wine for months, but that he would never write a line.

"Will you write about your love affairs?" I said. "Some," he said. I smiled. "You see? You're editing already." I was surprised to find that he is not an admirer who forgets. He visits old beauties who were dear to him a half century ago. And he always brings violets and that sexy smile. One of his one-time friends has lost her mind, and Maurice Chevalier visits her in an institution, where she sits in silence, hands between knees. He presses the violets on her, and reminisces about a great love, even though she never raises her eyes.

At La Louque, the lover who never had a child buys the love of nine youngsters, the offspring of servants. Whenever he returns from a trip, Chevalier is met at the door by little boys and girls in Sunday best, with scrubbed faces, who press their kisses on him as he crouches and the gifts tumble from his arms. Frank Sinatra said: "I'm going to do it." I believe him. This man with the lean hard kisser has a lot to tell. Also, he keeps his banner high. He won't cheapen the work with loveable lies. His story can make readers flinch. "I have pockets full of paper," he says. "Every time I think of something, I put it on a scrap of paper."

That's as good a way to start as any other. The problem is, what to do with the scraps of paper when you get home. It just so happens that, around Christmas 1960, Richard Nixon asked me about the mechanics of rapping out a book and, as he had just lost an election and was out of work, I sat and wrote the following, which came to me in a flash after writing several worst sellers:

1. Meditate on your life at least a half hour a day, alone.
2. Write a single sentence, or "cue line" regarding each event that comes to mind.
3. Buy some notebooks, marked with "ears" that depict each year of your life. Once a week, place cue lines in the proper years.
4. Go to the public library and research every year of your life. Find out the principal news events, the fashions, the sports events, theatre and scientific progress of each year. File them in the notebooks.

5. Interview relatives, friends, casual enemies and school chums. Tap their heads for truth, which you will find, is difficult to detect from abject flattery. Make more notes.
6. Examine your own weaknesses. File under the proper year all blunders, selfishness, ignorance, misjudgments and wounds. To keep from going crazy, on alternate nights study your past for triumphs, small and large. Place them in juxtaposition with the others.

Drew Pearson Says Fred Black Eavesdropping Case Had Sensational Angles

WASHINGTON—By all odds the most sensational eavesdropping case in the history of Washington was that conducted by the FBI two blocks from the White House in the Sheraton Carlton Hotel suite of lobbyist Fred Black.

There have been other interesting wiretapping cases, such as that conducted by the late Sen. Owen Brewster, R-Maine, on behalf of Pan American Airways in the hotel suite of Howard Hughes, then owner of Trans World Airways. And there has been recent bugging by rival natural gas pipeline companies.

But what makes the Fred Black bugging sensational is, first, the fact that it was adjacent to the VIP suite used by the State Department to entertain distinguished foreign visitors, and the FBI's electronic devices were so strong that they couldn't help listening in on these visitors also.

Second, and more important, there was some indication that the Attorney General who ordered the bugging, namely, Robert F. Kennedy, was interested in the activities of the then Vice President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Officially, the FBI was supposed to be investigating possible links between Black and Las Vegas gamblers. Certainly the FBI was not probing Black's income taxes. This was Internal Revenue's job and it finally convicted him—a conviction thrown out of court when Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach and Deputy Attorney General Ramsey Clark forced the FBI to admit it had been listening in on Black and others on a wholesale scale for some years.

FBI Retaliates

J. Edgar Hoover succeeded in getting Katzenbach eased out of the Justice Department in retaliation, and is now in the process of trying to put the screws under Ramsey Clark.

Regarding the Black electronic bug, however, the FBI is smart. It doesn't like to get mixed up in spying on highly placed politicians, and its agents were most restrained when they recorded, for instance, that a Senate "official"—not a Senator—"engaged in activity with female" in the Black suite.

It also picked up some conversations by President Kennedy himself.

The name of the late Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma was also mentioned, together with that of Vice President Johnson and other Southwestern friends of LBJ's. Johnson was involved in nothing incriminating, but his political opinions were, asked as to who could win and who could not in certain political races.

The FBI would have dropped the investigation like a hot potato when such big names were mentioned. For politics is nothing the FBI has any business listening in on.

Paraphrasing, this might give the present President of the United States a lesson in the dangers of wiretapping at a time when he is about to give Congress the green light on a new wiretapping law—despite the opposition of his Attorney General.

Bobby K. vs. LBJ

Two facts stand out regarding the FBI wiretapping of Black's apartment as all important.

The FBI has confided to President Johnson that Bobby Kennedy personally ordered the bugging. Attorney General Kennedy ordered the FBI to make a thorough probe of Bobby Baker, even assigned some of his own personal Justice Department investigators to go after Baker, as if he didn't trust the FBI. Finally, he kept a secret copy of the Baker findings in his own office safe.

Since Baker as Senate Secretary had long worked for Johnson as Senate Majority Leader, such a probe must have been aimed at the then Vice President. As it turned out, Baker's wheeling and dealing started after Johnson left the State, and the late Sen. Kerr, not Johnson, was involved as Baker's mentor and benefactor. Despite this, stories were leaked to the press—though never proved—that LBJ was involved.

Beginning of Feud

All this was the beginning of the Bobby Kennedy-Johnson feud. It has smoldered deep, will never be smothered.

Johnson's biggest day—his inaugural on Jan. 20, 1965, following his landslide triumph over Barry Goldwater—Kennedy made a show of visiting his brother's grave in Arlington. He arrived at the graveside in the morning, but because no photographers were around he came back again in the afternoon.

There could be no mistaking the message of the picture, which marred LBJ's inauguration. It was Kennedy's way of reminding the world who should have been President.

Subsequently, Kennedy has let it be known that he is ready to step into his brother's place if only Johnson will step aside. The hint was put most bluntly by Kennedy-intimate Ted Sorensen, who pointed out that three other Vice Presidents who had ascended to the Presidency in this century had not run for a second term.

"If Mr. Johnson of his own accord chooses to retire," said Sorensen, "No one can call that a retreat from the historical pattern when it would in reality be fidelity to it."

But President Johnson has no intention of abdicating to clear the way for Bobby Kennedy. If he should decide to retire from the White House, he would use his influence at the Democratic convention to block Kennedy's nomination, in favor of Hubert Humphrey.

Furthermore Johnson is a man who believes in gratitude and he remembers how in Bobby Kennedy's only bid for public office he was elected to the Senate from New York in 1964 by a 719,693 margin after he, LBJ, campaigned up and down the state for him. Johnson's majority was 2,669,597.

Rockefeller Has No Helping Hand to Offer Richard Nixon

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—In case anyone had any doubts, Gov. Rockefeller has made it clear again that Richard M. Nixon just isn't his cup of tea.

Since 1960, when Rockefeller and Nixon sparred for the Republican presidential nomination, the governor has been unable to muster any enthusiasm for him.

Rockefeller shed no tears when the former vice president lost his bid for the California governorship and thus appeared to have ruined his political career for good.

When Nixon moved to New York and into the same Fifth Avenue apartment house as the Rockefeller's, the governor did not play the role of good neighbor.

And now that Nixon has revived his political fortunes to the point where he is bidding once again for the White House, Rockefeller has no helping hand to offer. To the contrary, Rockefeller associates say he regards Nixon as the Republican he would least like to see win the nomination.

Two days ago, Rockefeller told radio-podcast interviewers at the Capitol that he would support Nixon if Nixon should be nominated.

A change of heart? No. There's less in his statement than meets the eye.

First of all, Rockefeller emphasized that he still was backing Michigan Gov. George Romney for the nomination.

He did not even give Nixon the status of second choice—saying only that, in the interest of party unity, he would support him if nominated.

No Direct Reply

When asked whether he could do so enthusiastically, Rockefeller hesitated—and the pause was not lost on his listeners. Finally, he avoided a direct reply but still managed to get across his feelings about a Nixon candidacy.

"As far as the state is concerned," he said, "there isn't the enthusiasm that there is in other parts of the country."

Finally, on the question of whether Nixon has what it takes to beat Johnson, Rockefeller said, "I have no more knowledge than you do."

This sort of talk, of course, is not calculated to warm Nixon's heart. Rockefeller knows it, but he simply does not bother—where Nixon is concerned to utter the niceties that political rivals in the same party usually expect of one another.

Those close to the governor say that the estrangement runs deeper than the fact that Rockefeller disagrees strongly with Nixon's more-conservative political philosophy—that it goes beyond the resentment he felt when Nixon won the 1960 nomination, instead of himself.

They point out that an even more conservative Republican, Barry M. Goldwater, beat Rockefeller in 1964 in an even more dramatic fashion, but that Rockefeller betrays no special animosity toward Goldwater.

The fact is, say Rockefeller intimates, the governor just doesn't like Nixon's personality or the way he operates. And that's that.

Biggest Contracts for Texas

By SAUL FRIEDMAN

(Chicago Daily News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Guess which state had the biggest increase in defense contracts last year?

You get only one clue: President Johnson lives there.

Nope, it's not Utah. Companies based in Texas got nearly $3.6 billion (B) in defense contracts for the fiscal year ending last June 30—An increase of nearly $1.3 billion (B) over the previous year, the Pentagon reports.

No other state received so large a boost.

The increase pushed Texas past New York and made it No. 2 in defense contract-getting among all the states. California held its long lead as No. 1.

For the benefit of cynics, the Defense Department said the Texas increase had nothing to do with the President's origin. Nor did it matter, a spokesman said, that Rep. George Mahon, Democratic chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is also a Texan.

Most of the increase, the Pentagon said, came from payments for the F-111, the controversial, all-purpose fighter plane, formerly called TFX. It is being built by the General Dynamics Corp., of Fort Worth.

General Dynamics, second largest defense contractor in the nation, had contracts totaling $1.8 billion (B) last year the government spent $700,000,000 (M) more on aircraft in Texas than the previous year.

There were other defense spending increases in Texas during the year $246,000,000 (M) more for ammunition; $70,000,000 (M) more for petroleum; $40,000,000 (M) more for missile parts and $22,000,000 (M) more for military construction; much of it done by Brown & Root, officials of which have long been political supporters of Mr. Johnson.

The only other state which had an increase comparable to Texas is Missouri. But the Defense Department said the increase of nearly $1.2 billion (B) there resulted from a merger of McDowell and Douglas Corp., of St. Louis, had an increase of more than $1 billion (B) in defense business last year. And the company's total contracts—$2.1 billion (B) or 5.4 per cent of all the defense work in the nation—made it the largest contractor last year.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 12, 1968

Lest They Kill USA

Drawing on the decline and decay of their cities as the forerunner of the fall of the great civilization in world history, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York warned that if America cannot solve the problems of its cities, then America may not be able to survive as a nation. His advice was given as vice chairman of President Johnson's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

From his own experience as head of the country's largest city, Lindsay recalled that through massive assistance from business, finance, industry and labor, the metropolis was able to enjoy "a second straight 'cool summer'" while other cities, large and small, were wracked by riots and disorders. This civic cooperation was the most important sociological development in America in decades, Lindsay said, and only in such a coalition does there exist a favorable future for cities.

At the same time, the Mayor called for "a five-year war on poverty, deterioration and despair," with government and private business forming the coalition needed to win. Hopeful but not overly encouraging, he added, there is an increasing awareness of the problem in the private sector and even some preliminary affirmative action, such as the financing offered by the insurance industry to erect public housing and to underwrite new business to make jobs its ghettos.

However, the battle and its impact are not localized in the ghetto area, the Mayor said. They range over the rising problems of crime and narcotics addiction, air and water pollution, mass transit, traffic congestion and better schools. They are countrywide, national headaches.

Besides the civic coalition, Lindsay asked for sharing by the cities of federal and state taxes to enable them to provide the needed services. Like most of the other liberals in office, he seems to think the public till is limitless, the taxpayers must pay and pay. Certainly the cities can be saved without bankrupting the country and its people.

4 Million Wealthholders

There were 4.1 million wealthholders in the nation—those with average gross assets of $60,000 or more with a net worth of $53,000 each—according to a study made by the Internal Revenue Service several years ago and just made public by the National Consumer Finance Association. Since the survey was made, the gross asset figure has risen to perhaps $75,000 and the net worth to perhaps $65,000.

One in each 15 families is a much smaller base of limited wealth than one would expect. For they are the largest taxpayers as well as the largest wealthholders and they bear the burden of the taxes paid to government on all levels.

A personal balance sheet for these 4.1 million would show their assets and liabilities, as all balance sheets should. Under long-term assets, they would include the family's house, if it owns one, car, furniture, and such personal possessions as silver, paintings, cash values of insurance and profit-sharing plan; under current assets would be checking account and savings account.

Liabilities would include long-term liabilities, such as the balance of the mortgage on the house, the balance of payments on the car and any other installment buying items; current liabilities would be those due within a month, presents, allowances, insurance premium, current household expenses, medical and dental costs.

It is a good idea to strike a personal balance sheet at this time of the year and note the changes—hopefully for the better—from year to year. That is one way the 4.1 millions got to be wealthholders.

David Lawrence Says

Number of Unemployed Increased by 100,000

WASHINGTON — Comparative percentages on unemployment from year to year do not tell the whole story. For, although the Bureau of Labor Statistics has just announced that the unemployment rate dropped in December to its lowest level in nine months, there are actually more people unemployed than there were a year ago.

It is true that the unemployment rate for 1967 averaged 3.8 per cent, which is the same as in 1966, but the number of unemployed rose from an average of 2,875,000 in 1966 to 2,975,000 in 1967. So, while the rate of unemployment or ratio of unemployed to the labor force remains unchanged, the number of persons unemployed increased by 100,000.

Even though more individuals are obtaining jobs than in the preceding years, the unemployment totals still are substantial.

Thus, nearly two decades ago—in 1948—the unemployment rate was also equal to 3.8 per cent, but the number of unemployed then was 700,000 less than the average for 1967. The number of persons unemployed has risen by 30.7 per cent since 1948. This figure is obtained by comparing the total number of persons unemployed in 1948—which was 2,276,000—with the total of 2,975,000 in 1967.

The simple truth is that job creation in America has not yet taken care of the increased number of persons seeking employment. There is some comfort, to be sure in the fact that, as the labor force has been increasing, jobs have been made available for the vast majority. The continuance, however, of nearly three million people on the unemployment rolls year after year is a discouraging aspect of the American economy.

One of the main reasons for the maladjustment and the absence of permanent jobs for lots of people is the short-lived nature of some of the government projects and a shrinking demand for unskilled labor as technology improves.

It will be said, of course, that out of the three million who are unemployed, some don't want to work or are "uneducated" or are trying to get "poverty" assistance without performing any services. It is also true that in homes where husbands are incapacitated or disabled, the wives are working, and children may drop out of school in order to provide funds for the family.

The unemployment totals are to some extent due to the inability of citizens to find their particular localities the kind of work they are able to do. Here is a reluctance to shift from one region of the country to another to seek work. In some areas there actually is a shortage of labor which could provide jobs for some of those who are unemployed but who live at distant points. The problem of how to move the population around to close these gaps has never been solved.

One thing is clear — jobs are plentiful during war years. The nation's lowest recorded percentage of unemployment was in World War II, when it dropped to 1.2 per cent in 1944. The lowest point since then was 2.9 per cent in 1953, during the Korean War. By 1958 the unemployment rate had gone up to 6.8 per cent, and has been diminishing slowly during the last 10 years.

This, however, is a percentage measurement, for the labor force has been increasing steadily. There is, for instance, very little difference between the number unemployed today and the total in 1957. The rate then was 4.3 per cent of the labor force, but there were 2,859,000 unemployed as compared with 2,975,000 in the year 1967—an increase of 116,000.

The rise in the number of unemployed from 2,875,000 in 1966 to 2,975,000 in 1967 is a truly disconcerting figure, and does not justify the optimistic comments which are being made by some economists to the effect that the country is "booming" and that a tax increase is needed to "slow things down." It is probable that, if such restraints were applied to the national economy at this time and government really cut its spending, the number of unemployed would grow considerably. This is why, for political reasons, it is unlikely that any slowing down will be permitted, at least until after the November elections.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Three persons have, over a period of years, asked me how to write an autobiography. This is remarkable, because I have never written one. However, the people are: Maurice Chevalier, Clare Boothe Luce, and Frank Sinatra. I respect each of them for a variety of reasons. Each has a stubborn integrity, and this leads to self-condemnation, which is as evil as self-praise.

Mrs. Luce is a gifted writer, and one evening we had dinner at her home in Scottsdale, Arizona. She had found that sculpting the face of another is one thing; looking in a mirror and chipping at the glassy image of one's own face is impossible. A flamboyant egotist might bring it off as a cover-to-cover love affair with himself. But who would read it?

Her great play was "The Women," just as her finest diplomatic moment was as ambassador to Italy. She was married to Henry Luce, who founded Time Magazine. In candlelight, she was bright and serene, but I was of no help, except in finishing a good dinner. How could I tell her that a good autobiography is a weathered face held up to light and shadow?

She hasn't got one. I was still dwelling on it, at random moments, when Maurice Chevalier stopped by. He was 77, a French dance hall man with an ingratiating smile, a straw hat, and many love affairs. He wanted to write his life story, he said, and would I please write the rules—see you play.

I sat with him over hot tea. A ballpoint pen danced a rigadon on a sheet of paper and I folded it and handed it over. "You won't do it," I said.

"This is a waste of time," he assured me that he would begin at once, back at his home, La Louque, near Paris. I assured him that he would discuss it over wine for months, but that he would never write a line.

"Will you write about your love affairs?" I said. "Some," he said. I smiled. "You see? You're editing already." I was surprised to find that he is not an admirer who forgets. He visits old beauties who were dear to him a half century ago. And he always brings violets and that sexy smile. One of his one-time friends has lost her mind, and Maurice Chevalier visits her in an institution, where she sits in silence, hands between knees. He presses the violets on her, and reminisces about a great love, even though she never raises her eyes.

At La Louque, the lover who never had a child buys the love of nine youngsters, the offspring of servants. Whenever he returns from a trip, Chevalier is met at the door by little boys and girls in Sunday best, with scrubbed faces, who press their kisses on him as he crouches and the gifts tumble from his arms.

Frank Sinatra said: "I'm going to do it." I believe him. This man with the lean hard kisser has a lot to tell. Also, he keeps his banner high. He won't cheapen the work with loveable lies. His story can make readers flinch. "I have pockets full of paper," he says. "Every time I think of something, I put it on a scrap of paper."

That's as good a way to start as any other. The problem is, what to do with the scraps of paper when you get home. It just so happens that, around Christmas 1960, Richard Nixon asked me about the mechanics of rapping out a book and, as he had just lost an election and was out of work, I sat and wrote the following, which came to me in a flash after writing several worst sellers:

1. Meditate on your life at least a half hour a day, alone.
2. Write a single sentence, or "cue line" regarding each event that comes to mind.
3. Buy some notecards, marked with "ears" that depict each year of your life. One a week, place cue lines in the proper years.

4. Go to the public library and research every year of your life. Find out the principal news events, the fashions, the sports events, theatre and scientific progress of each year. File them in the notebooks.
5. Interview relatives, friends, casual enemies and school chums. Tap their heads for truth, which you will find, is difficult to detect from abject flattery. Make more notes.

6. Examine your own weaknesses. File under the proper year all blunders, selfishness, ignorance, misjudgments and wounds. To keep from going crazy, on alternate nights study your past for triumphs, small and large. Place them in juxtaposition with the others.

7. The opening chapter should be your today. Everything is great and repetitious. Write individual scenes with chapters. Never fail to note weather, background, and characters. Respect all words. Never have more than one working for you at a time.

8. Finish the work. Burn it . . .

Most of the increase, the Pentagon said, came from payments for the F-111, the controversial, all-purpose fighter plane, formerly called TFX. It is being built by the General Dynamics Corp., of Fort Worth.

General Dynamics, second largest defense contractor in the nation, had contracts totaling $1.8 billion (B) last year the government spent $700,000,000 (M) more on aircraft in Texas than the previous year.

There were other defense spending increases in Texas during the year $246,000,000 (M) more for ammunition; $70,000,000 (M) more for petroleum; $40,000,000 (M) more for missile parts and $22,000,000 (M) more for military construction, much of it done by Brown & Root, officials of which have long been political supporters of Mr. Johnson.

The only other state which had an increase comparable to Texas is Missouri. But the Defense Department said the increase of nearly $1.2 billion (B) there resulted from a merger of McDowell and Douglas Corp., of St. Louis, had an increase of more than $1 billion (B) in defense business last year. And the company's total contracts—$2.1 billion (B) or 5.4 per cent of all the defense work in the nation—made it the largest contractor last year.

Social Security

Not All for Aged, Young Benefiting

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Publications

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Social Security stands in most American as an "old people's program," but in fact it has important meaning for young workers, for some young students, and for large numbers of children.

It is designed basically to protect aging Americans against the risk of income loss that can go with age. And about 17 million of the 19 million aged 65 or older do draw benefits under Social Security. In addition, all 19 million are automatically safeguarded by the program's hospital insurance under Medicare.

But, as we have seen earlier in this series, some two million orphans—survivors of deceased workers who would have been qualified for retirement benefits under Social Security—get benefits today.

Higher Cash Benefits

A breakdown indicates that, under the revised 1967 law, some 425,000 students aged 18 through 21 are qualified as survivors to get the higher cash benefits the revisions prescribe.

In the care of their widowed mothers, qualified under the program, hundreds of thousands of unmarried youngsters under 18 and disabled children who suffered disability before 18 get benefits—assuming their deceased fathers would have qualified for retirement payments under Social Security.

The payment to the students of late high school and early college age is obviously an assist to them in meeting steadily rising education expenses.

Children of disabled workers who qualify as do "survivor" children also get benefits. Again, this includes students up to 22.

In the disability field, young disabled workers also get a good break—a bit better under the new law than before.

Workers disabled before age 31 who presumably have barely begun their working careers, can qualify for benefits with less work under Social Security than the older disabled. The minimum, in fact, is set at 1 and one-half years of work. They get payments equivalent to those they would have if retiring fully qualified at age 65.

With healthy young workers just entering the Social Security system and facing long decades of paying ever-rising Social Security payroll taxes, the story is somewhat different.

Argument is often made that the young worker does not get his money's worth.

Contributions, Benefits

Social Security actuaries respond, however, by saying that young workers paying at maximum contribution rates over a working lifetime generally will get protection worth 15 to 20 per cent more than their contributions. Even in extreme cases, it is judged, the benefits are likely to be at least equal contributions.

As a matter of fact, because today's young workers will be helped by steadily rising wage rates and thus will attain higher earnings levels, their ultimate cash benefit prospect under Social Security is a peak 30 per cent above pre-1967 law—as against the average benefit increase of 13 per cent Congress provided.

Arguing the case another way, Social Security experts say the 1967 revisions give the "maximum earner" among young workers some $13,980 in additional protection—lifting his total in prospect from the old $49,140 to a new $62,120.

One last point the Social Security authorities make: It cannot be fairly assumed that there will not be further liberalizations of the program whose benefit may fall heavily to the younger workers who, right now, see only their mounting tax burdens.

(NEXT: Medicare)

Ritter Shatters His Chances

By PETER LAINE

(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Panamanian Ambassador Eduardo Ritter Aislan's candidacy for Secretary General of the Organization of American States is in pieces, shattered by his own hand.

It was clear Ritter's complaint to the OAS Monday of threats, and "minister intrigues" had made the prospect of his succession to the key post unacceptable to many of his colleagues.

The dramatic development rocketed the hopes of Galo Plaza Lasso, former President of Ecuador, who is regarded as the best-qualified administrator.

Venezuela was still supporting its former foreign minister, Marcos Falcon Briceno yesterday, but it was learned his country would have no hard feelings if an OAS majority selected someone else whose views were acceptable.

On the last of four inconclusive ballots, Ritter in December came within two votes of getting the 12 needed to win. He was enjoyed the backing of the Central American and Caribbean members. Plaza had six votes and Falcon five. Mexico has not voted.

At the tense special meeting Monday which he requested, Ritter read a 16-page statement complaining he had been subjected to an "evil campaign" and conspiracy by the press involving racism, nazism and discrimination against small countries.

BARBS

Hardest baby-sitting job in the world is minding someone else's business.

The fellow who tells a gal his wife doesn't understand him is pretty confused about other things, too.

Ritter's denunciation was viewed in some quarters as a backfiring last-ditch attempt to prevent the loss of supporters already shifting to other camps. Others saw it as designed primarily to strike an anti-United States position for consumption in the current Panamanian elections.

Ritter said he would be the first to congratulate whomever wins the OAS election. The next vote is set for Feb. 12.

Romney Opens Campaign For New Hampshire Bid

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Gov. George Romney began today his New Hampshire primary campaign in a drive to defeat former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his GOP presidential rival.

"I'm used to below zero weather," said Romney who faced the numbing cold along with polls showing Nixon favored by New Hampshire Republicans.

"It's great to be here and I'm looking forward to the contest," the Michigan governor said.

Even his campaign manager admitted the odds are not good in that contest.

The opponent, Nixon, has not yet announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the White House, and does not plan to begin his New Hampshire campaign until Feb. 3.

But Romney was up and away with an itinerary that defied the weather and began with a day-break handshake session at a Nashua electronics plant.

Temperatures in New Hampshire have been plunging well below zero in recent days.

Romney's opening day schedule had him on the road for 16 hours. Romney planned to spend 22 of 60 days before the primary, the nation's earliest, hunting for New Hampshire voters.

Campaign sources said the governor's New Hampshire effort would cost at least $250,000.

Romney's own polls rate him on a favorite at better than 3-1. But Romney contends he has overcome odds like that before and can do it again.

Romney forces were using a computerized mailing list to contact 130,000 New Hampshire Republicans opening neighborhood campaign headquarters throughout the state, and buying time on 20 radio stations to play a song extolling their candidate.

The song's lines: "We need a man today who's tough enough to do what's right and man enough to pray."

Temple Youth Present Rites

This evening at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, beginning at 7:30, the Youth Group of Temple Emanuel will conduct Sabbath Evening Services. The theme of the service will be, Can We Survive Today's Youth?

The NFTY Worship Committee, head by Rose Zucker, arranged this special service. Daniel Merrin, of the Temple Beth Emeth Youth Group, Albany will be the guest cantor for the evening. Nancy Motzkin will kindle the Sabbath lights.

Participating in the Torah service will be Laurence Wyman, Roy Brower and Howard Halpern. Creative prayers will be presented by Betty Winkler and Rose Zucker. David Zimet will lead the congregation in the Kiddish prayer. Also participating in the services are Iris Werba-lowsky, Neil Segal and Lori Gertner.

The Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by NFTY. Sue Landman and Rabbi Jonathan Eichenbaum will conduct an open dialogue on the theme of the services. The congregation will be invited to express their opinions and question the two speakers.

Fifteen members of the Senior Christian Youth Group of Woodstock will be attending as guests. They will be invited to participate in the discussion following services. Refreshments will be served by the parents of the Temple Youth Group.

No Meeting

The regular Woodstock Town Board meeting for January will not be held this month it was learned today. A special meeting was held Wednesday, Jan. 10.

A respectable showing in the New Hampshire voting March 12 is vital to Romney's presidential hopes.

A Nixon victory would echo in the later primaries and a Romney defeat could lead increasing numbers of moderate Republicans to turn publicly to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Democratic Gov. John W. King of New Hampshire said many GOP voters in the state may decide to write in Rockefeller's name if Romney appears to be faring badly as the primary campaign nears its climax.

Joe Assails The 'Stone Age' FB Thinking

"Stone Age" thinking by the Kansas Farm Bureau would permit young children to operate dangerous farm machinery and explosives," Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick charged today.

Resnick, who has been conducting a 1-man investigation of the American Farm Bureau Federation, released the text of a Kansas Farm Bureau resolution attacking a recent Labor Department ruling prohibiting employment of minors under 16 years of age in certain "hazardous occupations."

The Department's ruling also forbids youths under 16 from operating certain types of farm machinery.

"It is inconceivable in this day and age, when we think we have abolished the worst abuses of child labor, that we should still have to fight such reactionary thinking," Congressman Resnick said.

The first phase of the study, an assessment of the physical characteristics of the Town of Rochester, its population and economic forecasts, traffic and transportation problems, retention of aesthetic character, and existing land use, have been completed and will be discussed.

The second phase of the study, "Where does the town want to go? What kind of town do residents want for their children?" will be discussed by Dr. Harry A. Anthony and Robert C. Krom of Brown and Anthony and preliminary master sketches, zoning ordinances and sub-division regulations will also be discussed as well as educational problems. A tabulation of the results of a recent questionnaire mailed to Rochester residents will also be presented.

John W. Scribano, Planning Board chairman and Supervisor Franklin Kelder will speak.

A question and answer period will follow.

Invite Seniors To See Flick

All senior citizens of Kingston are invited to attend a movie "Come To The Stable" Monday, Jan. 15 at 7 p. m. in the recreation hall at Wiltwyck Gardens.

The event is being sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department in cooperation with the Golden Age Club and the residents of Wiltwyck Gardens.

The movie features Celeste Holm and Loretta Young. Coffee and cake will be provided by Wiltwyck Garden residents, according to Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

To Offer Course In Police Science

Subject to final approval by the State University of New York, Orange County Community College, Middletown will begin teaching police science next fall.

An initial class of 40 law enforcement students is anticipated by the college, according to a proposal to be submitted to the SUNY board of trustees by Dr. Robert T. Novak, OCCC president.

The new two-year curriculum was approved by the college's board of trustees at a meeting Monday.

Dr. Novak said the police science request will be sent to the state immediately, and that a SUNY decision is expected within the next two months.

Given 15 Days

Thomas Birkholz, 52, of Spring Glen, was arrested Thursday by Ellenville Village Police and charged with criminal trespassing third degree. He was accused of entering property owned by Nathan Weiss at 28 Warren Street in that community. Village Police Judge Ronald Elias sentenced Birkholz to 15 days in the county jail after he pleaded guilty.

Plan Breakfast

The St. Peter's School Association of Rosendale is sponsoring a pancake breakfast Jan. 28 from 9 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. at the school cafeteria, Rosendale. The public may attend and tickets may be obtained at the door.

KHS Student Given Private Pilot's License

Miss Bryarly Lehmann, a junior student at Kingston High School, is reported to be the youngest person ever to be awarded a private airplane pilot's license in the state.

Miss Lehmann, who started her training at Ulster Airport, Flatbush Road, completed her work for the pilot's license in less than a year's time. Following local training, she received advance training for her pilot's wings at North Central, R. I.

She is presently receiving training in instrument flying, it was made known today.

Rochester Plans Board Sets Jan. 17 Meeting

A public meeting will be held Wednesday, Jan. 17 at 8 p. m. in the Rondout Valley Central School cafeteria by the Town of Rochester Planning Board.

The meeting marks the halfway point of a two-year study made by the professional planning firm of Brown and Anthony of New York City in connection with state and federal government.

The first phase of the study, an assessment of the physical characteristics of the Town of Rochester, its population and economic forecasts, traffic and transportation problems, retention of aesthetic character, and existing land use, have been completed and will be discussed.

The second phase of the study, "Where does the town want to go? What kind of town do residents want for their children?" will be discussed by Dr. Harry A. Anthony and Robert C. Farmhouse Vandalism

Vandalism of a vacant Longmontville farmhouse is being investigated by sheriff's deputies it was disclosed.

The house, owned by W. Forrester of 96 West Main Street, St. Johnsville, was discovered vandalized Wednesday night by Alfred Motter of 6 Hillsworth Avenue, Kingston. Deputies said the kitchen door had been smashed and the entire inside torn apart.

Forrester is scheduled to arrive in Longmontville Saturday. Officials said, an inventory will determine whether anything is missing, a deputy noted.

Saugerties Boy County Winner In Legion Meet

Robert Gilbert of Saugerties High School took first place honors in the Ulster County section of the National High School Oratorical Contest Thursday night at Rondout Valley High School.

The event sponsored by the county American Legion is the first of a series of competitions. Gilbert as winner of the county contest will compete at Saugerties High School 2 p. m. Feb. 18. In that oratorical match, seven county winners will vie for district honors. The zone competition will be held at Highland March 3 with four district winners in the running.

At Thursday night's program second place was taken by David Peters of Highland with John Carter of New Paltz, third. Cash awards were $15, $10 and $5.

Speaking on the general theme of the constitution winning topics in order were The Founding Fathers, The Challenge of the Constitution and The Bill of Rights in Everyday Life.

Escapee Back At New Hampton Training School

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 15-year-old escapee, who gave police a wild chase through three counties along the Thruway, Thursday was back in the New Hampton Training School for Boys in Orange County today as authorities settled down to routine operations.

The youth bolted from the institution after dawn yesterday and stole a car. He headed along the main highway toward the superhighway. An off-duty trooper spotted him and gave chase in a patrol car, but was forced off the road when he tried to halt the fleeing vehicle.

Radio calls brought three more troopers into the chase. After the fugitive broke through a toll gate and headed south on the Thruway, troopers from Tarrytown joined the chase and the Suffern toll gate was blocked.

Another police car made an unsuccessful attempt to halt the youth near the Spring Valley exit in Rockland County. The escape car smashed through the Spring Valley interchange and swung into the northbound lane. Then it switched back to the south lane.

Tappan Zee Bridge officials halted all traffic. The fugitive's car roared across the bridge going south in the northbound lane. Toll collectors complied with orders to abandon their booths.

The speeding car zig-zagged and smashed the toll gate. Its occupant jumped from the car as it rolled into a snow bank. The escapee found that running was not as fast as traveling in a car, and he was quickly collared by Trooper Harold Fetter just 2½ hours after the inmate fled from the state school.

Troopers returned the boy to Middletown.

There were no injuries, but troopers made entries on the blotter — three toll gates smashed, one police car damaged.

Train Crash In New Jersey

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A New York-bound rapid transit commuter train crashed into the rear of another at the height of the evening rush hour Thursday injuring some 200 persons. Eighteen required hospitalization.

There were no fatalities. The injured began jamming the Jersey City Medical Center shortly after the 5:15 p. m. collision which occurred just west of the Port Authority Trans Hudson (PATH) tubes station at Journal Square here.

Twenty-eight doctors were called in to reinforce the two normally assigned to emergency duty. Dr. Clifford Blasi, director of emergency facilities, said more than 200 victims were brought in. Most were treated and released.

"I heard a big sound and then everything went black," said Gilbert Rodriguez, 46, of the Bronx, N.Y., a passenger in one of the trains. Rodriguez said he was in a train which halted behind a second of the subway-style trains, waiting to enter the Journal Square station.

Engineers Meet Set Wednesday

The Mid-Hudson Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold a meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Texaco Research Center, Glenham.

James A. Snyder of Aircro Krysosystems, Murray Hill, N.J., will give a talk on Modern Ultra-Low Temperature Refrigerators and Helium Liquifiers.

His talk will include classification of representative low temperature refrigerators by function related to capacity at various temperature levels. Cycle thermodynamics will be discussed and a typical cycle will be related to actual hardware by tracing the cycle functions through the components of a full-size cutaway refrigerator model. A new concept in a helium gas bearing turbo-expander will be discussed and hardware will be displayed as well as a new concept in compact, coaxial, spiral-flow heat exchangers.

Romney Opens Campaign For New Hampshire Bid

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Gov. George Romney began today his New Hampshire primary campaign in a drive to defeat former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his GOP presidential rival.

"I'm used to below zero weather," said Romney who faced the numbing cold along with polls showing Nixon favored by New Hampshire Republicans.

"It's great to be here and I'm looking forward to the contest," the Michigan governor said.

Even his campaign manager admitted the odds are not good in that contest.

The opponent, Nixon, has not yet announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the White House, and does not plan to begin his New Hampshire campaign until Feb. 3.

But Romney was up and away with an itinerary that defied the weather and began with a day-break handshake session at a Nashua electronics plant.

Temperatures in New Hampshire have been plunging well below zero in recent days.

Romney's opening day schedule had him on the road for 16 hours. Romney planned to spend 22 of 60 days before the primary, the nation's earliest, hunting for New Hampshire voters.

Campaign sources said the governor's New Hampshire effort would cost at least $250,000.

Romney's own polls rate him on a favorite at better than 3-1. But Romney contends he has overcome odds like that before and can do it again.

Romney forces were using a computerized mailing list to contact 130,000 New Hampshire Republicans opening neighborhood campaign headquarters throughout the state, and buying time on 20 radio stations to play a song extolling their candidate.

The song's lines: "We need a man today who's tough enough to do what's right and man enough to pray."

Temple Youth Present Rites

This evening at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, beginning at 7:30, the Youth Group of Temple Emanuel will conduct Sabbath Evening Services. The theme of the service will be, Can We Survive Today's Youth?

The NFTY Worship Committee, head by Rose Zucker, arranged this special service. Daniel Merrin, of the Temple Beth Emeth Youth Group, Albany will be the guest cantor for the evening. Nancy Motzkin will kindle the Sabbath lights.

Participating in the Torah service will be Laurence Wyman, Roy Brower and Howard Halpern. Creative prayers will be presented by Betty Winkler and Rose Zucker. David Zimet will lead the congregation in the Kiddush prayer. Also participating in the services are Iris Werbalowsky, Neil Segal and Lori Gertner.

The Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by NFTY. Sue Landesman and Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn will conduct an open dialogue on the theme of the services. The congregation will be invited to express their opinions and question the two speakers.

Fifteen members of the Senior Christian Youth Group of Woodstock will be attending as guests. They will be invited to participate in the discussion following services. Refreshments will be served by the parents of the Temple Youth Group.

No Meeting
The regular Woodstock Town Board meeting for January will not be held this month it was learned today. A special meeting was held Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Joe Assails The 'Stone Age' FB Thinking
"Stone Age" thinking by the Kansas Farm Bureau would permit young children to operate dangerous farm machinery and explosives," Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick charged today.

Resnick, who has been conducting a 1-man investigation of the American Farm Bureau Federation, released the text of a Kansas Farm Bureau resolution attacking a recent Labor Department ruling prohibiting employment of minors under 16 years of age in certain "hazardous occupations." The Department's ruling also forbids youths under 16 from operating certain types of farm machinery.

"It is inconceivable in this day and age, when we think we have abolished the worst abuses of child labor, that we should still have to fight such reactionary thinking," Congressman Resnick said.

Escapee Back At New Hampton Training School

A 15-year-old escapee, who gave police a wild chase through three counties along the Thruway, Thursday was back in the New Hampton Training School for Boys in Orange County to day as authorities settled down to routine operations.

The youth bolted from the institution after dawn yesterday and stole a car. He headed along the main highway toward the superhighway. An off-duty trooper spotted him and gave chase in a patrol car, but was forced off the road when he tried to halt the fleeing vehicle.

Radio calls brought three more troopers into the chase. After the fugitive broke through a toll gate and headed south on the Thruway, troopers from Tarrytown joined the chase and the Sufferin toll gate was blocked.

Another police car made an unsuccessful attempt to halt the youth near the Spring Valley exit in Rockland County. The escapee car smashed through the Spring Valley interchange and swung into the northbound lane. Then it switched back to the south lane.

Tappan Zee Bridge officials halted all traffic. The fugitive's car roared across the bridge going south in the northbound lane. Toll collectors complied with orders to abandon their booths.

The speeding car zig-zagged and smashed the toll gate. Its occupant jumped from the car as it rolled into a snow bank. The escapee found that running was not as fast as traveling in a car, and he was quickly collared by Trooper Harold Fetter just 2½ hours after the inmate fled from the state school.

Troopers returned the boy to Middletown.

There were no injuries, but troopers made entries on their blotter — three toll gates smashed, one police car damaged.

Train Crash Injures 200 In New Jersey
JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A New York-bound rapid transit commuter train crashed into the rear of another at the height of the evening rush hour Thursday injuring some 200 persons. Eighteen required hospitalization.

There were no fatalities. The injured began jamming the Jersey City Medical Center shortly after the 5:15 p. m. collision which occurred just west of the Port Authority Trans Hudson (PATH) tubes station at Journal Square here.

Twenty-eight doctors were called in to reinforce the two normally assigned to emergency duty. Dr. Clifford Blasi, director of emergency facilities, said more than 200 victims were brought in. Most were treated and released.

"I heard a big sound and then everything went black," said Gilbert Rodriguez, 46, of the Bronx, N.Y., a passenger in one of the trains. Rodriguez said he was in a train which halted behind a second of the subway-style trains, waiting to enter the Journal Square station.

Engineers Meet Set Wednesday
The Mid-Hudson Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold a meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Texaco Research Center, Glenham.

James A. Snyder of A.R.C. Kryosystems, Murray Hill, N.J., will give a talk on Modern Ultra-Low Temperature Refrigerators and Helium Liquifiers.

His talk will include classification of representative low temperature refrigerators by function related to capacity at various temperature levels. Cycle thermodynamics will be discussed and a typical cycle will be related to actual hardware by tracing the cycle functions through the components of a full-size cutaway refrigerator model. A new concept in a helium gas bearing turbo-expander will be discussed and hardware will be displayed as well as a new concept in compact, coaxial, spiral-flow heat exchangers.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Trees suffer from drought in winter just as they do in summer, especially if there are strong, cold, drying winds that sap moisture through needles and bark.

space around roots lack moisture, roots will shrivel and die. Shallow-rooted trees go first. Twigs and branches dry out. Leaves do not emerge or foliage is considerably less than normal, although fruit may be heavy. Then the tree will die. Street trees, experts report, are very susceptible to winter drought. Snow usually helps trees since it prevents freezing of roots. At least the upper soil is moist, reducing winter injury. Without snow, a deep freeze—sometimes down two feet or more—will lock up moisture, preventing it from reaching tree roots.

If winter injury becomes apparent next spring, feed trees amply, running, spraying and watering carefully.

Dairy scientists at Pennsylvania State University say ground up newspapers and molasses make a nutritious cattle feed. By providing a cheap and nutritious cattle feed that would not compete with man's own food needs, the mixture could help alleviate a threatened world food shortage, said Dr. Earl M. Kesler.

Heifers fed 2½ pounds of newspaper-molasses mixture for 56 days gained weight and appeared as healthy as heifers given a standard high quality feed supplement.

The heifers showed equal preference for daily newspapers and slick magazines. The aim of the experiment is to find an inexpensive preparation containing fiber roughage and molasses.

Egypt and the Bath

We hate to admit it, but the bathroom is not an American invention. According to the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, the Pharaohs of Egypt had separate 4-room apartments for every favorite in their harem. Each consisted of a bedroom, living room, clothes closet and bathroom.

New Kitchen Sink Offerings

Almost 75 percent of the homemaker's time in the kitchen is spent at the sink. It remains the center of food preparation and cleanup no matter how elaborate or completely equipped your kitchen may be. With this in mind, manufacturers are building many conveniences into their sinks. These are among the features available, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau says:

1. Single, double or triple bowls. Some combinations have one bowl shallower than the other to provide leg room for women who like to work sitting down. The sit-down compartment may be either right or left of the "conventional" bowl.
2. Power unit for mixer, blender, and knife sharpener.
3. Lotion or liquid soap dispensers.
4. Cutting board and basket for washing fruit or vegetables.
5. Remote control drain, which enables you to open and close the drain with a control near the faucet.
6. Spray attachment. Newest ones come on a flexible steel hose.

7. Colors to match appliances or provide a striking contrast to the rest of the kitchen's decor. Stainless steel ones come in several finishes.

You can get sinks with single or double drainboards or none at all. There are sinks for corner installations. A swing spout on your faucet is a great convenience, and an aerator will help prevent splashing. It will save water too, because millions of air bubbles introduced into the stream cause water to suds up faster and also rinse off more easily.

Garden's Attraction

One of the great attractions of Kensington Gardens, London, is the Peter Pan statue. The statue was set up at night so that the children who saw it the next day would think that fairies had brought it. Sir James Barrie got his idea for "Peter Pan" while watching children playing in the Gardens.

Italy has 26 state universities.

A Metal Can Is Safest For That Fuel Storage

Approximately 15 percent of all fires in the home involve flammable liquids directly or hazardous situations resulting from their use. This statistic only suggests the millions of dollars of property loss, hundreds of lives snuffed out and countless more who are seriously burned.

The tragedy is that the great majority of these fires are the direct result of carelessness and thoughtlessness. Too often people use flammable cleaning liquids in the kitchen with the resulting vapors offering an invitation to the range pilot light. Frequently oil or gas stained rags are thrown in open containers setting the scene for spontaneous combustion. Children playing with matches around flammable liquid is the background for another drama. Others "help fireplace fires along" by squirting on lighter fluid or fill lighters with a lit cigarette in disaster. Fire safety authorities agree that while proper use of these liquids is important, proper storage of them is equally vital. Recommended is storing of flammable liquids in fireproof metal containers with snug-fitting tops. If you insist on retaining oily rags, they should be similarly housed.

With such storage, even if you do have a fire, it is safely entrapped in the metal container and may very well even smother itself as oxygen is used up by the blaze.

During World War I, Russia once had a peak strength of 54 cavalry divisions, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Add a Period Touch to Any Decor With an Authentic

FRANKLIN STOVE

By DONLEY

Its classic styling blends with any decor... any period... any room design. Its versatility makes it adaptable to a variety of uses and installations. Truly, this old favorite is more popular today than ever. It's a warming, cheerful fireplace (with doors open)... it's a decorative cabinet (with doors closed)... it's a handsome, comfortable and convenient unit that can be installed anywhere.

The Franklin Stove is very useful for family rooms, weekend cabins, porches, patios or anywhere the welcome warmth of auxiliary heat is wanted.

- Among its many advantages:
- Can be used with coal, wood or charcoal.
 - Heat radiation from the sides provides more heat than most fireplaces.
 - It is also available for grilling and barbecue cooking — indoors or out.
 - Legs provide sufficient clearance for installation directly on the floor.
 - Venting for the smokestack can be horizontal or vertical—from top or rear of the stove.
 - Can be installed in existing fireplaces... with or without legs.

All accessories also available such as Grate Basket, Barbecue Grill, Fireplace Screen, Flue Reducer, Cast Iron Elbow.

Tchaikovsky Winner Will Sing in Kingston

A young American born singer, who walked off with the coveted prize in the Men's Division of the first Tchaikovsky Vocal Competition in Moscow, will appear at the Community Theater Monday, Jan. 15 at 8:30 p.m. for members of the Community Concert Association.

The handsome bass-baritone, Simon Estes, has received acclaim for his exceptional talent wherever he has performed for he not only has a great voice but considerable potential for music drama as well. He has impressed concert audiences with his artistry. He sings everything from opera to spirituals with ease. Estes has an enormous range which he uses with flexibility.

The 30-year old singer is in the habit of winning awards and prizes for his exceptional talent for he was presented with the Munich International Music Competition award, three Rockefeller grants, the William Matheus Sullivan Grant, the Metropolitan Opera Grant, the New York Community Trust Grant as well as a scholarship to the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

In 1966 Simon Estes sang in five different productions of the Deutsche Opera in Berlin, appearing with that company four times in Rome. Immediately, he was engaged by the Lubeck Company of Germany with which he appeared in the roles of Timur in "Turandot" and Bartolo in "The Marriage of Figaro."

This year Estes returns to the Hamburg Opera for both fall and spring seasons and among his many appearances will be the creation of two roles, Uncle Albert and Carter Jones in "The Visitation."

Other operas in which he has appeared include "Aida," "Don Carlo," "Salome," and "Moses and Aron." He has sung with great success in recital in Berlin and Munich. As a oratorio soloist, he has been heard in New York, New Jersey, and in his native state of Iowa.

Born in Centerville, Iowa, Simon Estes studied at the University of Iowa, where he registered for a pre-med course, sociology, psychology, religion and music. It wasn't until 1963 that Estes decided to undertake the serious study of music. He remained at the University as a full scholarship student from 1964 and part of 1965.

Upon his return from the Vocal Competition in Moscow, the talented singer was presented in concert in Tanglewood, the Hollywood Bowl, and appeared on the "Tonight Show."

Following the example of many American singers, Simon Estes made his first professional appearance in Europe and, with the Moscow Competition as a springboard, he is on the threshold of a great career.

The Community Concert Association is most pleased to be able to present Mr. Estes in concert for the residents of Kingston.

Federated Garden Clubs Complete Successful Year

The Third District of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Inc. completes a most successful year with its many worthwhile endeavors under the directorship of Mrs. Kenneth B. Robinson, 32 Kalina Drive, Saugerties.

In the early part of 1967 a project entitled "World Gardening," a CARE Project in Ecuador, was subscribed to by many of the 72 garden clubs in the Third District. This is a School Garden Project. With the providing of garden tools and seed packages the children of Ecuador have been able to grow unfamiliar vegetables and through their interest in their home gardens have benefited entire families. It is the purpose of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Inc. to further the program as much as possible to enable the Ecuadorians to see the difference of a well-balanced diet and the part it plays on eliminating malnutrition and intestinal diseases.

The civic activities of the garden clubs of the eight counties in the Third District have participated in beautification of landscape plantings of public libraries, town and city government buildings, education centers, youth centers, community hospitals, historical areas and store areas. "Gardens for the Blind" with workshops has been a very successful endeavor.

Whenever possible Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and 4-H members have been included in the activities of garden clubs.

Mrs. Hugh E. DuBois of Claverack, N. Y., Junior High School Gardener Chairman, announced the formation of junior garden clubs in the Third District. The clubs formed are: High School Gardeners Club sponsored by the Old Dutch Village Garden Club, Dutchess County; Hudson Valley Junior Garden Club and Junior Garden Club of East Schodack, N. Y. Other juvenile endeavors have been the sponsoring of teenage boys to the New York Conservation Camp at Raquette Lake, N. Y. and the establishing of Tot-Lots and Nature Learning Centers.

A member of the executive board, Conservation Chairman Mrs. Lambert D. LeMaire, Scotia, N. Y., an extremely active conservationist has been listed in the 50th Edition of Who's Who of American Women. Mrs. LeMaire has conscientiously kept the Conservation pledge as an American to defend her waste, to work for wise use and good management of her country's natural resources, its soil and minerals, its forests, waters, and wildlife.

The Unsolicited Citation Award for Civic Beautification was given in October to the immaculate Conception Seminary,

College of Philosophy, Troy, N. Y. The Rev. Ralph DiPasquale, president of the College of Philosophy and Father Primo, Dean of Studies, accepted the award.

The coveted Gold Seal Citations for excellence in presenting a Standard Flower Show were given to The Greenbush Garden Club of Rensselaer County, general flower show chairman: Mrs. M. Smith, New Paltz Garden Club, Ulster County; Mrs. Alvin Beatty, president; and the Garden Club of East Schodack, Rensselaer County; Mrs. Bernard Rheingold, general flower show chairman.

To meet the challenge of a national effort for a more beautiful America the Third District has planned for its members a complete program in horticulture and conservation for 1968. A Horticulture School, spring course, will be held at the Reformed Church, New Paltz, April 30, May 1, and May 2 under the direction of Mrs. David Rosenbaum, Pine Bush, 2nd Assistant Director of the Third District. Mrs. Rosenbaum's assistants will be Mrs. A. Keith Smiley, Mrs. Lambert D. LeMaire, Professor H. Gilbert Harlow and Mrs. Richmond Barton.

The fall horticulture course will be held in the Third District on Nov. 6, 7 and 8.

The conservation workshop will be held on October 31.

Announcement of Engagements for Area Girls

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Kelly of Simsbury, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon, to Richard G. Murphy, son of Mrs. John Murphy, Kingston, and the late John Murphy.

Miss Kelly is a senior education major at the University of Bridgeport.

Mr. Murphy attended Ulster County Community College, and is a senior education major at Southern Connecticut State College.

An August wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Tomas, 21 Manor Lane, Barclay Heights, Saugerties, announce the engagement of their daughter, Judithann Elizabeth, to William Patrick Igoe, 6 Prospect Street, Saugerties.

Miss Tomas is an alumna of now a senior at Barry College, Miami Shores, Fla., where she Saugerties High School. She is majoring in English and elementary education. She attended Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., where she is a member of Kappa Delta National Sorority.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of Saugerties High School and attended Marist College, Poughkeepsie. Mr. Igoe is employed at IBM Kingston, in the Purchasing Department, and is proprietor of the Colonial School House Antique Shop, Veteran.

A July wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mergendahl Sr., 28 Allen Street, Saugerties, announce the engagement of their daughter, Blanche P., to Keith R. Keller, house son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Kellerhouse, Pine Street, West Hurley. Miss Mergendahl is a senior at Saugerties High School and a senior studying cosmology at the Board of Cooperative Educational Services School of Kingston.

Her fiancé attended Ontario Central School and is employed as a driver for Republic Van Lines. No date has been set for the wedding.

Anzalone-Dousharm Nuptials Are Announced Here

Miss Barbara Ann Anzalone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anzalone, 69 Main Street, Highland, became the bride of Joseph W. Dousharm Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dousharm Sr., Rosendale, Saturday, Dec. 30, in St. Augustine's Church, Highland. The Rev. Msgr. Charles M. Walsh officiated at the double ring ceremony and was celebrant of the Nuptial Mass. Servers at the Mass included Gary Dutka, Highland, cousin of the bride, and Gordon Morrack, Utica, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over silk taffeta, designed with a fitted basque bodice, scalloped neckline trimmed in iridescent sequins, long fitted sleeves and a full ruffled skirt which terminated in a cathedral train. Her elbow length bouffant veil of French illusion fell in four tiers from a cluster of lace and peau de sole rosettes trimmed with crystals. She carried a cascade arrangement of white miniature carnations centered with a red rose corsage.

Miss Deborah Anzalone, Highland, was maid of honor for her cousin. She wore a sapphire blue chiffon gown fashioned with a princess style skirt. She also wore a cage type coat with elbow length sleeves and velvet shoulder bows. Her headpiece was a matching floral cluster with a four-tiered bouffant veil, and she carried a cascade arrangement of blue and white miniature carnations.

Bridesmaids were the Misses

MRS. JOSEPH W. DOUSHARM JR. (Gallo photo)

Nancy, Anne, Joan and Dorothy Dousharm, Rosendale, sisters of the bride; Beverly Anzalone, Highland, sister of the bride. Their rose petal pink gowns and headpieces were similar to the honor attendant's and they carried cascade arrangements of pink and white miniature carnations.

Flower girl was Donna Anzalone, Highland, a cousin of the bride. Her floor length frock of white organza, colonial style, featured a sapphire blue taffeta cummerbund and white lace ruffles at the hemline. Her headpiece was a wreath of turquoise flowers with a circular veil, and she carried a basket of red rose petals.

Timothy Dousharm, Rosendale, was best man for his brother and Frank Anzalone, Poughkeepsie, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer. Ushers were Edward Bennett, Kingston; James McGrath, New Paltz; Scott Dousharm, Rosendale, brother of the bridegroom; Ricky Venturini, Poughkeepsie; Philip Giangrosso and Alex Dutka Jr., Highland, cousins of the bride.

After the wedding a reception was held at Pantony's, Highland.

For her wedding trip to Corpus Christi, Tex., the bride selected a blue military suit.

The bride attended Highland High School and is a former employee of Empire-Grand Union Company, New Paltz.

Her husband, a 1964 alumnus of Rondout Valley Central High School, has just completed a year's tour of duty with the U.S. Air Force in Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Dousharm will reside at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Tex.

Agudas Achim to Hold Installation

On Saturday at 8:30 p.m. Congregation Agudas Achim will hold its annual installation of officers.

The installing officer will be Maurice Goldberg, a prominent local attorney.

The officers to be installed are: president, David Popick; first vice-president, Herman Schneider; second vice-president, Hyman Reher; secretary, Jack Shienvald; and treasurer, Ed Todor. Also to be installed are the members of the board of directors of the Synagogue. All members of the synagogue and their friends are invited. Refreshments will be served by the Sisterhood.

St. Mary's Rosary Elects Officers

St. Mary's Altar Rosary Society held its regular meeting on Monday, Jan. 8 at the school hall. New officers for the coming year are Mrs. Barbara Betkowski, president; Miss Patricia Bruck, secretary and Mrs. Alice Zates, treasurer.

The Misses Paula Bruck, Regina Bruck, Helene Betkowski and Peggy McNugget were welcomed as new members.

President Betkowski announced the following committee chairmen: refreshments, Agatha Markett; linen, Patricia Bruck and Rita Brazee; sick and vigil, Paula and Regina Bruck and publicity, Virginia Ellis.

The annual Valentine party will be held on Thursday, Feb. 15, at 7 p.m. in the school hall. Kay Reno was appointed chairman for this event. A covered dish supper will be served and the committee will contact members regarding donations for the supper. Secret pal gifts will be exchanged. It was decided to initiate a group project in which all members may participate. Members will work on the project at the monthly meeting. Further details will be announced prior to the February meeting. At future meetings, a question and answer period will be conducted by Rev. John J. Farley, moderator of the Society.

Members are requested to save used greeting cards which are to be brought to the meetings where they will be assembled for distribution to the hospitals and nursing homes. The group will also collect old costume jewelry which will be sent to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

Mrs. Tess Parker has accepted chairmanship of a cookie sales project. All members are asked to assist in this fund raising project.

Mrs. Betkowski announced that in the future, meetings will be held in the first floor meeting room. Anyone desiring transportation to and from the meetings may contact Mrs. Betkowski or Mrs. Peggy McNugget and arrangements will be made for them.

Tchaikovsky Winner Will Sing in Kingston

A young American born singer, who walked off with the coveted prize in the Men's Division of the first Tchaikovsky Vocal Competition in Moscow, will appear at the Community Theater Monday, Jan. 15 at 8:30 p.m. for members of the Community Concert Association.

The handsome bass-baritone, Simon Estes, has received acclaim for his exceptional talent wherever he has performed for he not only has a great voice but considerable potential for music drama as well. He has impressed concert audiences with his artistry. He sings everything from opera to spirituals with ease. Estes has an enormous range which he uses with flexibility.

The 30-year old singer is in the habit of winning awards and prizes for his exceptional talent for he was presented with the Munich International Music Competition award, three Rockefeller grants, the William Matheus Sullivan Grant, the Metropolitan Opera Grant, the New York Community Trust Grant as well as a scholarship to the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

In 1966 Simon Estes sang in five different productions of the Deutsche Opera in Berlin, appearing with that company four times in Rome. Immediately, he was engaged by the Lubeck Company of Germany with which he appeared in the roles of Timur in "Turandot" and Bartolo in "The Marriage of Figaro."

This year Estes returns to the Hamburg Opera for both fall and spring seasons and among his many appearances will be the creation of two roles, Uncle Albert and Carter Jones in "The Visitation."

Other operas in which he has appeared include "Aida," "Don Carlo," "Salome," and "Moses and Aron." He has sung with great success in recital in Berlin and Munich. As a oratorio soloist, he has been heard in New York, New Jersey, and in his native state of Iowa.

Born in Centerville, Iowa, Simon Estes studied at the University of Iowa, where he registered for a pre-med course, sociology, psychology, religion and music. It wasn't until 1963 that Estes decided to undertake the serious study of music. He remained at the University as a full scholarship student from 1964 and part of 1965.

Upon his return from the Vocal Competition in Moscow, the talented singer was presented in concert in Tanglewood, the Hollywood Bowl, and appeared on the "Tonight Show."

Following the example of many American singers, Simon Estes made his first professional appearance in Europe and, with the Moscow Competition as a springboard, he is on the threshold of a great career.

The Community Concert Association is most pleased to be able to present Mr. Estes in concert for the residents of Kingston.

Federated Garden Clubs Complete Successful Year

The Third District of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Inc. completes a most successful year with its many worthwhile endeavors under the directorship of Mrs. Kenneth B. Robinson, 32 Kalina Drive, Saugerties.

In the early part of 1967 a project entitled "World Gardening," a CARE Project in Ecuador, was subscribed to by many of the 72 garden clubs in the Third District. This is a School Garden Project. With the providing of garden tools and seed packages the children of Ecuador have been able to grow unfamiliar vegetables and through their interest in their home gardens have benefited entire families. It is the purpose of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Inc. to further the program as much as possible to enable the Ecuadorians to see the difference of a well-balanced diet and the part it plays on eliminating malnutrition and intestinal diseases.

The civic activities of the garden clubs of the eight counties in the Third District have participated in beautification of landscape plantings of public libraries, town and city government buildings, education centers, youth centers, community hospitals, historical areas and store areas. "Gardens for the Blind" with workshops has been a very successful endeavor.

Whenever possible Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and 4-H members have been included in the activities of garden clubs.

Mrs. Hugh E. DuBois of Claverack, N. Y., Junior High School Gardener Chairman, announced the formation of junior garden clubs in the Third District. The clubs formed are: High School Gardeners Club sponsored by the Old Dutch Village Garden Club, Dutchess County; Hudson Valley Junior Garden Club and Junior Garden Club of East Schodack, N. Y. Other juvenile endeavors have been the sponsoring of teenage boys to the New York Conservation Camp at Raquette Lake, N. Y., and the establishing of

Tot-Lots and Nature Learning Centers.

A member of the executive board, Conservation Chairman Mrs. Lambert D. LeMaire, Scotia, N. Y., an extremely active conservationist has been listed in the 50th Edition of Who's Who of American Women. Mrs. LeMaire has conscientiously kept the Conservation pledge as an American to defend her waste, to work for wise use and good management of her country's natural resources, its soil and minerals' its forests, waters, and wildlife.

The Unsolicited Citation Award for Civic Beautification was given in October to the immaculate Conception Seminary,

College of Philosophy, Troy, N. Y. The Rev. Ralph DiPasquale, president of the College of Philosophy and Father Primo, Dean of Studies, accepted the award.

The coveted Gold Seal Citations for excellence in presenting a Standard Flower Show were given to The Greenbush Garden Club of Rensselaer County, general flower show chairman; Mrs. M. Smith, New Paltz Garden Club, Ulster County, Mrs. Alvin Beaty, president; and the Garden Club of East Schodack, Rensselaer County, Mrs. Bernard Rheingold, general flower show chairman.

To meet the challenge of a national effort for a more beautiful America the Third District has planned for its members a complete program in horticulture and conservation for 1968. A Horticulture School, spring course, will be held at the Reformed Church, New Paltz, April 30, May 1, and May 2 under the direction of Mrs. David Rosenbaum, Pine Bush, 2nd Assistant Director of the Third District. Mrs. Rosenbaum's assistants will be Mrs. A. Keith Smiley, Mrs. Lamber D. LeMaire, Professor H. Gilbert Harlow and Mrs. Richmond Barton.

The fall horticulture course will be held in the Third District on Nov. 6, 7 and 8.

The conservation workshop will be held on October 31.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I recently had a broken arm and believe you me it was a bad break. Carrying the heavy this and you can buy them at cast against my body was almost unbearable and it made my ribs sore, so . . . My wife made me a small pillow. I put it inside my sling next to my ribs. Saved the sore spots there. When my neck got tired, I picked up that little old pillow—it was about 6" x 10"—and put it on the back of my neck where my sling cut. At night, I put that pillow on my chest. As I turned over I moved it so it would be between the cast and my body. . . .

I met this man while his arm was in a sling and he showed me how he used the little pillow. He also showed me that when he was tired of holding his arm up while he was sitting in a chair, he could put the pillow on his knee and lay the heavy cast on it. Let's hope you don't . . .

but if any of you folks break an arm you might try it. Baby pillows are great for this and you can buy them at the dime store for less than a dollar. These pillows can be cut in half to make tiny pillows. Heloise: I've found a remarkable way to save that large roll of leftover Christmas paper! First I remove all the paper and re-roll it by hand, kinda tight. Then I put it inside the cardboard roll. . . . I know, after I go to this extra effort, my wrapping paper will be as good as new when I need it next year. . . . Mrs. Murphy

LETTER OF LAUGHTER Dear Heloise: I believe your name should have been Minerva and your family must be saints to put up with all your various experiments. Thank you for your past assistance and keep those hints coming. . . . Mrs. J.C. Harris

I looked up Minerva and she was the ancient Roman goddess of wisdom, technical skill and invention. So thanks for the compliments, Mrs. Harris, but now that the holidays are over, I think the only one that applies to me is "ancient." At least that's the way I feel right now! . . . Heloise I just got the greatest idea so I'm sitting right down to pass it on to you and your readers. I lost two pairs of short gloves this past summer and re-

You Have a Choice --- Pants or Skirt

Even as the word flashed around the world that the queen of England's couturier Hardy Amies has dropped the hemline modestly below the knees, Oscar de la Renta has hemlines with a built-in compromise. That what Jean Sprain Wilson, AP fashion writer has to say these days. Actually, his first few costumes shown Wednesday compromised more than the matter of where the shirt edge shall rest, but also the dilemma of should ladies wear the pants or the skirts? Or should fashion abandon the hard chic of Frenchman Andre Courreges for marshmallow softness? Not all, but the first of the pretty manikins who opened the press preview at the American Designer shows strode into public eye in white boots just short of the knees and red and white belted topseamed costumes just long of the knees. However, in seconds the misses had zipped themselves out of their old-looking new look of the post-war years to stand bare kneed in miniculottes. Equally as compromised was the boot with its entire foot chopped off at the instep, making it part sandal.

In the spring collections is an overabundance of ruffles and lace, an abundance of patriotism, and such a goodly supply of ostrich feathers that there surely must be a shortage of ostriches these days.

Now that body-hugging styles are in even though the body may not be in shape for hugging, Warner's slimwear gave a show to reveal some inside secrets. Among these is a body suit, a second skin of lightweight, elasticized fibers which grab hold of the situation from the bosom straight down to the toes.

Jean Wilson also comments that if it takes longer and if it costs more for women to dress in the coming months, it is because everything has to match.

That has become evident at the American Designer show also.

Forget the gloves and hat bit, she says. That is only a minor scramble compared with the major matter of being co-ordinated from the squared tip of a lady's platform soled, clumpy heeled shoe to the top of her ringleted head this spring.

Consider the brow wrinklers of a woman assembling her wardrobe for a day at school or the office, or a night on the town. Designers Anne Klein, Lotte Hoffman and Don Simonelli did before they created the lines they shipped to the runways for fashion consumption.

Is she feeling patriotic? Then she ought to be in style with bright red heels on her white platform-soled shoes, navy blue gams disappearing into a navy miniskirt, topped by a belted white top with a red insert, and a saucy tam on her head. Maybe she's in a nautical mood and needs a double-breasted brass-buttoned coat with her jaunty cap and ducky slacks. Shopping for the exact extras is expensive but important to the costumy look of fashion this spring.

Doing the Right Thing

DIVORCED COUPLE REMARRIES

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been divorced three years and now intend to remarry my husband. We were married in the Catholic church so we are still considered married. But by civil law we are not. Where do we stand, and what is the right procedure? Since we were married by the church we do not wish to get remarried in church until our 25th anniversary, which will be in two years. Is it terrible to consider being married after being divorced?

—Mrs. S. M.
Dear Mrs. M.: Since the church considers you still married, there is no reason to go through the religious ceremony again. You must, of course, have another civil ceremony. Do that quietly and privately, and then on your 25th anniversary, have a religious ceremony renewing your marriage vows.

There is nothing terrible about remarrying a husband of some 20 years. On the contrary, the terrible thing is that you spent three years in separation. Make up the wasted time as fast as you can. . . .

Those Who Introduced Friends Hurt at Being Left Out

Dear Mrs. Post: Through my sister-in-law and brother we met a married couple who are very dear friends of theirs. We had been entertained by them and recently had them to dinner with their children. My brother and sister-in-law are deeply hurt that we did not include them, too. Are we in the wrong?—Bertha Black

Dear Mrs. Black: Your brother and sister-in-law are being hyper-sensitive. They should be pleased that you liked their friends well enough to want to know them better. . . .

Uniforms Not Only Proper But Handsome

Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter's formal prom is coming up shortly and some of the girls' escorts are now in the service. Would it be proper for the boys to wear their service uniforms, or is a tuxedo definitely required?—Edna S.

Dear Mrs. S.: Those boys who are proud of their military service and wish to wear their uniforms may do so. No costume is more handsome and eye-catching than a military man's dress uniform, and I'm sure the boy's dates won't fail to notice it! . . .

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

You Have a Choice --- Pants or Skirt

Even as the word flashed around the world that the queen of England's couturier Hardy Amies has dropped the hemline modestly below the knees, Oscar de la Renta has hemlines with a built-in compromise. That what Jean Sprain Wilson, AP fashion writer has to say these days. Actually, his first few costumes shown Wednesday compromised more than the matter of where the shirt edge shall rest, but also the dilemma of should ladies wear the pants or the skirts? Or should fashion abandon the hard chic of Frenchman Andre Courreges for marshmallow softness? Not all, but the first of the pretty manikins who opened the press preview at the American Designer shows strode into public eye in white boots just short of the knees and red and white belted topseamed costumes just long of the knees. However, in seconds the misses had zipped themselves out of their old-looking new look of the post-war years to stand bare kneed in miniclotures. Equally as compromised was the boot with its entire foot copped off at the instep, making it part sandal.

In the spring collections is an overabundance of ruffles and lace, an abundance of patriotism, and such a goodly supply of ostrich feathers that there surely must be a shortage of ostriches these days. Now that body-hugging styles are in even though the body may not be in shape for hugging, Warner's slimwear gave a show to reveal some inside secrets. Among these is a body suit, a second skin of lightweight, elasticized fibers which grab hold of the situation from the bosom straight down to the toes.

Jean Wilson also comments that if it takes longer and if it costs more for women to dress in the coming months, it is because everything has to match.

That has become evident at the American Designer show also.

Forget the gloves and hat bit, she says. That is only a minor scramble compared with the major matter of being co-ordinated from the squared tip of a lady's platform soled, clumpy heeled shoe to the top of her ringleted head this spring.

Consider the brow wrinklers of a woman assembling her wardrobe for a day at school or the office, or a night on the town. Designers Anne Klein, Lotte Hoffman and Don Simonelli did before they created the lines they shipped to the runways for fashion consumption.

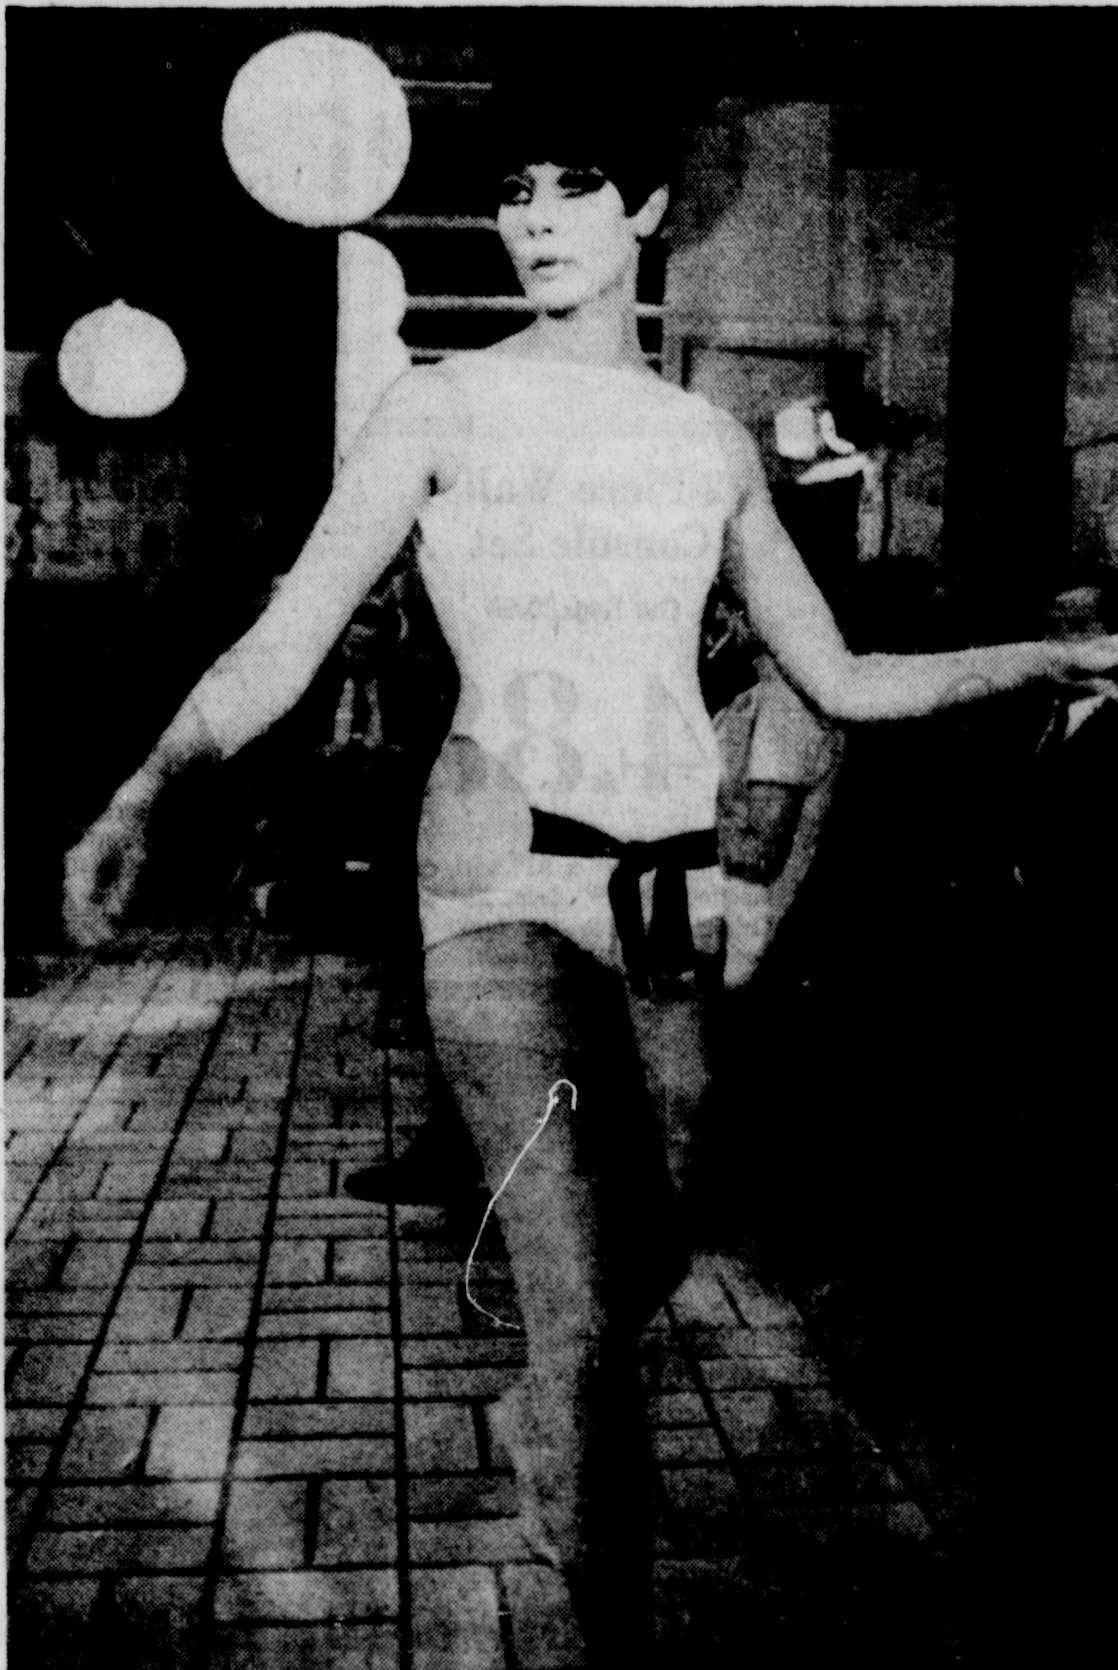

Is she feeling patriotic? Then she ought to be in style with bright red heels on her white platform-soled shoes, navy blue gams disappearing into a navy miniskirt, topped by a belted white top with a red insert, and a saucy tam on her head. Maybe she's in a nautical mood and needs a double-breasted brass-buttoned coat with her jaunty cap and ducky slacks. Shopping for the exact extras is expensive but important to the costume look of fashion this spring.

SHIRTS AHOY — James Kenrob's new spring collection features a classic knit button-down shirt cum sweater in crisp stripes. The look is neat and the silhouette close to the body. Solid color collar and cuffs echo the hues of the matching knit pants, also from Dalton's James Kenrob collection. Shirt and pants sizes 6-18. Shirt colors: White/hot pink; white/navy; white/green; white/poppy. Pants colors: hot pink; navy; green; poppy; white.

TRIM AND TAILORED — In such exciting colors as electric yellow and paprika, this bit of tailored subtlety is from Dalton's America's new cruise and springtime collection. The collared, placket front is flattering to all ages. Knits are ideal for winter cruising and spring at home. Sizes 6-16. Colors: desert camel, electric yellow, navy, paprika, tampa green, winter white.

Doing the Right Thing

DIVORCED COUPLE REMARRIES

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been divorced three years and now intend to remarry my husband. We were married in the Catholic church so we are still considered married. But by civil law we are not. Where do we stand, and what is the right procedure? Since we were married by the church we do not wish to get remarried in church until our 25th anniversary, which will be in two years. Is it terrible to consider being married after being divorced? —Mrs. S. M.

Dear Mrs. M.: Since the church considers you still married, there is no reason to go through the religious ceremony again. You must, of course, have another civil ceremony. Do that quietly and privately, and then on your 25th anniversary, have a religious ceremony renewing your marriage vows.

There is nothing terrible about remarrying a husband of some 20 years. On the contrary, the terrible thing is that you spent three years in separation. Make up the wasted time as fast as you can.

Those Who Introduced Friends

Dear Mrs. Post: Through my sister-in-law and brother we met a married couple who are very dear friends of theirs. We had been entertained by them and recently had them to dinner with their children. My brother and sister-in-law are deeply hurt that we did not include them, too. Are we in the wrong? —Bertha Black

Dear Mrs. Black: Your brother and sister-in-law are being hyper-sensitive. They should be pleased that you liked their friends well enough to want to know them better.

Uniforms Not Only Proper
But Handsome

Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter's formal prom is coming up shortly and some of the girls' escorts are now in the service. Would it be proper for the boys to wear their service uniforms, or is a tuxedo definitely required? —Edna S.

Dear Mrs. S.: Those boys who are proud of their military service and wish to wear their uniforms may do so. No costume is more handsome and eye-catching than a military man's dress uniform, and I'm sure the boy's dates won't fail to notice it! . . .

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I recently had a broken arm and believe you me it was a bad break. Carrying the heavy this and you can buy them at a dime store for less than a most unbearable and it made dollar. These pillows can be cut in half to make tiny pillows. My wife made me a small one. I put it inside my sling next to my ribs. Saved the sore spots there. When my neck got tired, I picked up that little old pillow—it was about 6" x 10"—and put it on the back of my neck where my sling cut. At night, I put that pillow on my chest. As I turned over I moved it so it would be between the cast and my body. F.B.A.

I met this man while his arm was in a sling and he showed me how he used the little pillow. He also showed me that when he was tired of holding his arm up while he was sitting in a chair, he could put the pillow on his knee and lay the heavy cast on it. Let's hope you don't . . .

but if any of you folks break an arm you might try it. Baby pillows are great for this and you can buy them at a dime store for less than a most unbearable and it made dollar. I looked up Minerva and she was the ancient Roman goddess of wisdom, technical skill and invention. So thanks for the compliments, Mrs. Harris, but now that the holidays are over, I think the only one that applies to me is "ancient." At least that's the way I feel right now! Heloise

I just got the greatest idea so I'm sitting right down to pass it on to you and your readers. I lost two pairs of short gloves this past summer and re-

The Freeman Publisher and An Interview

"The essence of my philosophy (as a newspaper owner) is that a local paper should be locally operated," Ralph Ingersoll, president of Mid-Hudson Publications Inc., of which The Freeman is a member, said last night on a radio interview with Chantler Chapman, editor of the Barre Town Explorer.

The program, sponsored by Silverlake Dairy, was aired on Radio Station WEOK-FM in Poughkeepsie. Speaking of local papers, Ingersoll said he became interested in The Freeman, which he bought in November of 1966, for two reasons. He said he had once owned a newspaper in Middletown but was primarily attracted to The Freeman because he was born in Prattville in Greene County. Zaddock Pratt, founder of Prattville, a Greene County tanner and later a congressman, was Ingersoll's great-grandfather.

Ingersoll said his ancestors, who served for 27 years and worked on the Washington Monument Committee, boasted that he swam the Hudson River in the winter at the age of 70.

Now a Museum
Recently the Ingersoll family bought the Zaddock Pratt House in Prattville and have converted it into a museum.

Ingersoll reminisced during the half-hour interview, going back to his first job as a mining engineer in Mexico. Ingersoll said he studied to be a miner because his father was an en-neer. Ingersoll said his father, who designed the Queensborough Bridge, considered anyone who wasn't an engineer "some-what lacking in moral fiber."

Ingersoll's short-lived mining career led to the writing of his first book, "In and Under Mexico." He has since written 11 other books and is currently working on two more.

Ingersoll spoke of his newspaper, PM, which first hit the stands on June 18, 1940, the same time the Germans were breaking through the Maginot Line in France during World War II.

Assignment From FDR

An assignment from President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the fall of 1941 during Hitler's invasion of Russia resulted in Ingersoll's being the first western correspondent to interview the Premier Stalin during the war. Roosevelt sent Ingersoll to Russia to obtain Stalin's permission on allowing American correspondents to cover the fighting.

Ingersoll said he had to go the "back way" to Moscow through Burma, China, the Gobi Desert and the Trans Siberian Railroad into the Russian capital.

His first words to Stalin were in jest. Ingersoll said he told Stalin he'd beaten the German Army to Moscow by 30 miles. Upon Ingersoll's arrival Hitler's divisions were, in fact, 30 miles outside of Moscow.

Stalin laughed at his joke, Ingersoll said. "He was an extraordinary person (Stalin). He had two moods. He was either very warm or very cold," Ingersoll recalled.

Ingersoll also recalled that he "struck out entirely on his mission." He said Stalin's answer to the correspondent request was, "If Mr. Roosevelt wants to help, he will."

Ingersoll said he (Ingersoll) got so mad, he got up and walked out. Stalin caught him at the door, asking, "what's the matter? What's the matter?"

Ingersoll replied, "I promised your state department I wouldn't waste your time and I see I'm wasting your time." Stalin's reply: "Sit down. Sit down. What do you want to know?"

"How are we going to win the war?" Ingersoll asked. Stalin replied that it was all a matter of productivity. At the time, the Russian premier saw things as pretty much even and figured that American economic strength would eventually turn the tide.

To Cruise Caribbean

Coming up to the present, Ingersoll said he was planning a Caribbean cruise. He said there are similarities between the colonization of the Caribbean and former western dominance in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

He saw the real fight in Vietnam as between Russia and China. "I think we're fighting Russia's war in Vietnam," he said. "Russians and Chinese aren't getting killed. Poor Vietnamese are getting killed."

He also said he felt the United States was fighting the Vietnamese War at a great disadvantage due to the length of our supply lines. "Russia's supply lines aren't too short either," he added.

Interviewed Winnie

A book by Ingersoll covering the London Blitz, "Report on England," led to his interviewing Winston Churchill who thanked him for writing the book.

During the interview German planes began bombing London. Aides urged Churchill to go to the bomb shelter beneath 10 Downing Street. Churchill's reply, according to Ingersoll, "I'm talking to a friend. I can't be bothered with Germans." They talked for an hour and a half.

Reporter at Heart

Speaking of the newspaper business, Ingersoll said, "I'm a reporter at heart. I like to run newspapers and I like to run good newspapers which are working for the people in their area."

Reiterating his policy of local operation of local newspapers, Ingersoll said, "Take the Kingston Freeman and the city of Kingston. How does anyone who does not live in Kingston know what Kingston's problems are?"

Chapman, at the conclusion of the program, said, "Mr. Ingersoll, you have left a feeling in American journalism which belongs to you."

Ingersoll promised Chapman a report on his Caribbean cruise.

DeWitt Memorial Held By County Bar Group

A memorial ceremony for the late Macdonald DeWitt was held at the recent opening of the January Term of the Supreme Court at the Ulster County Court House. Presiding was Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth of the Supreme Court. Also present on the bench were Justice Louis G. Bruhn of the Supreme Court and County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The service was held at the request of the Ulster County Bar Association. Seymour Werbalow, president of the Association, presented Peter Harp of New Paltz for the purpose of offering a resolution on behalf of the Ulster County Bar Association. Harp's resolution traced the background of DeWitt with particular emphasis upon the substantial impact which his life and work had upon the people of Ulster County. It was remembered that although DeWitt was a native son of Ulster County, he had, for many years, lived and practiced in the New York City area and rose to substantial stature as an attorney in that area.

It was pointed out that in addition to DeWitt's remarkable legal career as a practicing attorney, he also held public office as district attorney, as surrogate judge and as U. S. Congressman. His field of specialization as one of the outstanding libel lawyers in the country, whose clients numbered, among others, the Hearst Newspapers, the New York Herald Tribune and the New York Daily News, was discussed, as was his authorship of several leading books and his contributions to legal and other periodicals.

At the conclusion of the resolution, remarks were heard by N. Jansen Fowler, a member of the local Bar and the stepson of DeWitt, who spoke briefly on behalf of the family.

Justice Elsworth noted that with the passing of DeWitt, he suffered a deep personal loss. He discussed DeWitt's contribution to the revolving fund which made possible college educations for young men who did not have the resources to obtain an otherwise deserved college-level education. It was particularly noted that no matter where his career took him, he always returned to his native Ulster County and favored the county with many accounts of charity and other good works. Particular notice of his very substantial contributions to the Ulster County Community College, both by way of financial assistance and moral support

Sheriff, Murphy Attend Police Training Meet

Several members of local law enforcement agencies attended the annual one-day Municipal Police Training Council meeting held Wednesday at Bear Mountain Inn.

They include Sheriff William B. Martin, Undersheriff Jerome Schwartz, City Judge Hubert Richter, Kingston Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, and Jack Lupton of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Kingston office.

The parley was headed by Orrell A. York, who served as chairman. He is executive director of the council.

Discussions were held on proposed training sessions during the coming year for police officers and supervisory officers of law enforcement agencies.

Last year the council conducted 30 basic schools and had 1,373 graduates; 66 intermediate schools with 2,360 graduates, and two supervisory schools with 51 graduates.

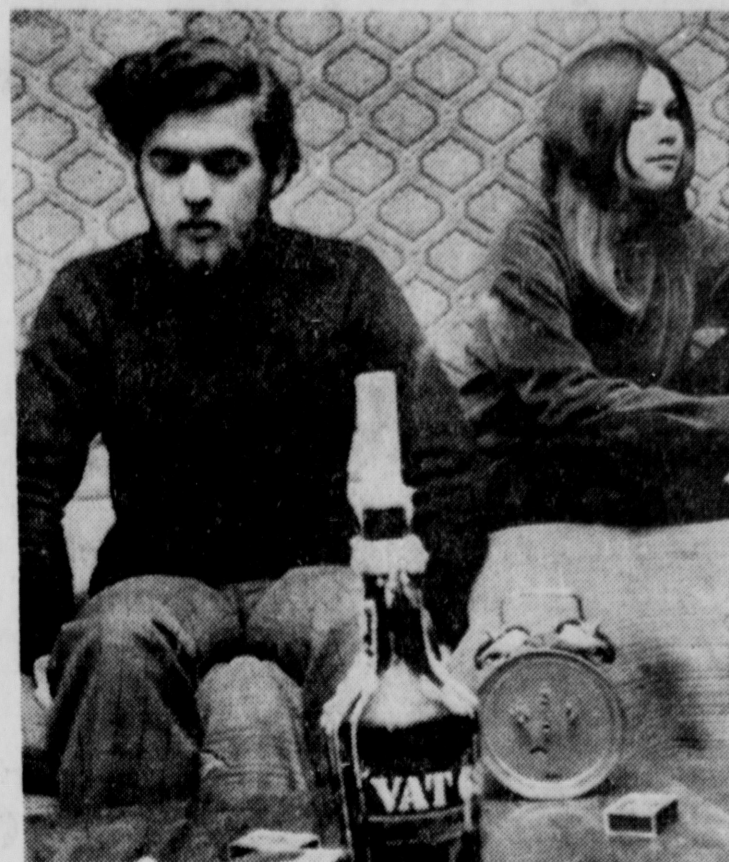

In Zone 4, embracing Ulster County, Sheriff Martin and Chief Murphy are sub-coordinators of the training sessions. John F. Malone, assistant director of the FBI, New York City, serves in an advisory capacity for Zone 4.

Fire Scare

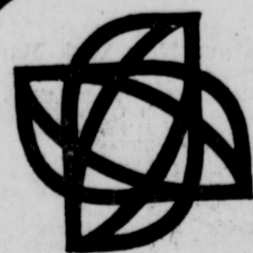

A short in a temperature unit at United Pharmacy yesterday caused minor installation damage and smoke discharge, firemen disclosed this morning.

The store, situated at 329 Wall Street and owned by Enhab Drug Co. Inc., was formerly owned and managed by George Svirsky. Firemen said the unit was housed in a candy cabinet that controlled the store's heating element. The heating element was removed to be checked by specialists, firemen noted.

The building, a three story brick mercantile, was not damaged. Firemen said the alarm was sounded at 12:47 p. m.

The Freeman Publisher and An Interview

"The essence of my philosophy (as a newspaper owner) is that a local paper should be locally operated," Ralph Ingersoll, president of Mid-Hudson Publications Inc., of which The Freeman is a member, said last night on a radio interview with Chanler Chapman, editor of the Barrytown Explorer.

The program, sponsored by Silverlake Dairy, was aired on Radio Station WEOK-FM in Poughkeepsie. Speaking of local papers, Ingersoll said he became interested in The Freeman, which he bought in November of 1966, for two reasons. He said he had once owned a newspaper in Middletown but was primarily attracted to The Freeman because he was born in Prattville in Greene County.

Zadock Pratt, founder of Prattville, a Greene County tanner and later a congressman, was Ingersoll's great-grandfather.

Ingersoll said his ancestors, who served for 27 years and worked on the Washington Monument Committee, boasted that he swam the Hudson River in the winter at the age of 70.

Now a Museum
Recently the Ingersoll family bought the Zadock Pratt House in Prattville and have converted it into a museum.

Ingersoll reminisced during the half-hour interview, going back to his first job as a mining engineer in Mexico. Ingersoll said he studied to be a miner because his father was an engineer. Ingersoll said his father, who designed the Queensborough Bridge, considered anyone who wasn't an engineer "some-what lacking in moral fiber."

Ingersoll's short-lived mining career led to the writing of his first book, "In and Under Mexico." He has since written 11 other books and is currently working on two more.

Ingersoll spoke of his newspaper, PM, which first hit the stands on June 18, 1940, the same time the Germans were breaking through the Maginot Line in France during World War II.

Assignment From FDR
An assignment from President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the fall of 1941 during Hitler's invasion of Russia resulted in Ingersoll's being the first western correspondent to interview the Premier Stalin during the war. Roosevelt sent Ingersoll to Russia to obtain Stalin's permission on allowing American correspondents to cover the fighting.

Ingersoll said he had to go the "back way" to Moscow through Burma, China, the Gobi Desert and the Trans Siberian Railroad into the Russian capital.

His first words to Stalin were in jest. Ingersoll said he told Stalin he'd beaten the German Army to Moscow by 30 miles. Upon Ingersoll's arrival Hitler's divisions were, in fact, 30 miles outside of Moscow.

Stalin laughed at his joke. Ingersoll said, "He was an extraordinary person (Stalin). He had two moods. He was either very warm or very cold," Ingersoll recalled.

Ingersoll also recalled that he "struck out entirely on his mission." He said Stalin's answer to the correspondent's request was, "If Mr. Roosevelt wants to help, he will."

Ingersoll said he (Ingersoll) got so mad, he got up and walked out. Stalin caught him at the door, asking, "what's the matter? What's the matter?"

Ingersoll replied, "I promised your state department I wouldn't waste your time and I see I'm wasting your time." Stalin's reply: "Sit down. Sit down. What do you want to know?"

"How are we going to win the war?" Ingersoll asked. Stalin replied that it was all a matter of productivity. At the time, the Russian premier saw things as pretty much even and figured that American economic strength would eventually turn the tide.

To Cruise Caribbean
Coming up to the present, Ingersoll said he was planning a Caribbean cruise. He said there are similarities between the colonization of the Caribbean and former western dominance in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

He saw the real fight in Vietnam as between Russia and China. "I think we're fighting Russia's war in Vietnam," he said. "Russians and Chinese aren't getting killed. Poor Vietnamese are getting killed."

He also said he felt the United States was fighting the Vietnamese War at a great disadvantage due to the length of our supply lines. "Russia's supply lines aren't too short either," he added.

Interviewed Winnie
A book by Ingersoll covering the London Blitz, "Report on England," led to his interviewing Winston Churchill who thanked him for writing the book.

During the interview German planes began bombing London. Aides urged Churchill to go to the bomb shelter beneath 10 Downing Street. Churchill's reply, according to Ingersoll, "I'm talking to a friend. I can't be bothered with Germans." They talked for an hour and a half.

Reporter at Heart
Speaking of the newspaper business, Ingersoll said, "I'm a reporter at heart. I like to run newspapers and I like to run good newspapers which are working for the people in their area."

Reiterating his policy of local operation of local newspapers, Ingersoll said, "Take the Kingston Freeman and the city of Kingston. How does anyone who does not live in Kingston know what Kingston's problems are?"

Chapman, at the conclusion of the program, said, "Mr. Ingersoll, you have left a feeling in American journalism which belongs to you."

Ingersoll promised Chapman a report on his Caribbean cruise.

DeWitt Memorial Held By County Bar Group

A memorial ceremony for the late Macdonald DeWitt was held at the recent opening of the January Term of the Supreme Court at the Ulster County Court House. Presiding was Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth of the Supreme Court. Also present on the bench were Justice Louis G. Bruhn of the Supreme Court and County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The service was held at the request of the Ulster County Bar Association. Seymour Werbalowsky, president of the Association, presented Peter Harp of New Paltz for the purpose of offering a resolution on behalf of the Ulster County Bar Association. Harp's resolution traced the background of DeWitt with particular emphasis upon the substantial impact which his life and work had upon the people of Ulster County. UCCC Five Hosts Concordia Tonight at Auditorium

Gilligan Bars NFA Propaganda

KHS Expects Trouble In Game at Newburgh

Long before tonight's climatic DUSO League basketball clash between unbeaten Kingston and Newburgh Academy, both 2-0, at Newburgh, the propaganda lines crackled between the two cities.

Wary as the Israeli ambassador awaiting the arrival of the Arab delegation, Coach Jack Gilligan of the favored Maroons said he wasn't buying... the Hill City line that he could name the score.

A Newburgh source predicted nothing but disaster for the 4-3 Goldbacks.

"They don't have much of a chance against Kingston," said the Hill City contact. "They (NFA) will have a lot of trouble with the press and they can't run with Kingston. The Maroons should be able to run them into the boards."

As a parting thrust, the pessimistic Newburgh expert quoted Coach Mickey Burkowski, one-time NFA athletic great, that Kingston would be able to name the score. Efforts to reach Burkowski for confirmation have failed.

"This is the best line of propaganda I've heard in a long time," said Coach Gilligan. "They must be trying to set us up for the kill."

"They lost to Philip Schuyler of Albany, the best team in the capital district by only six points," Gilligan went on. "And they led Schuyler at the end of three periods."

"About this young team stuff," said Gilligan building up a good head of steam, "they've played seven games and that young team" label disappeared a long time ago."

Gilligan's demurrer is not expected to dissuade DUSO observers, who look for a great contest—and Kingston victory. The Maroons have beaten NFA on the Hill City boards in three of their last four meetings—twice with the Section 9 title at stake. Prior to that, however, Newburgh had been the graveyard for many a favored Kingston team.

NFA boasts a 6 foot 6 freshman center in Jim Rogers. Rounding out the top six are Bill Briggs, Martin Kemp, Gabe Powell, Nick Bucci and Sam Walker.

"Rogers (a freshman) should be on the Jayvees," said the Newburgh source. "He must be kidding," Gilligan countered.

The Kingston squad is in good shape physically and mentally for the showdown. It carries a 6-1 record and 91.2 per game scoring average into the contest, while limiting the opposition to 72.1.

Big Five Wins

In two DUSO starts, the Maroons demolished Middletown, 105-70, and topped Monticello 79-68. The latter score doesn't remotely approach the real story of the game. Meanwhile, NFA turned back Port Jervis and Liberty.

Kingston's new Big Five is clicking beautifully. A. J. (Andy) Murphy has had four straight big games and is averaging 21 on 147 points. Bruce Gilligan is at 21.9 and Ken Gilligan at 14. Ted Wood shows a 9.1 average and with Ray Lindhorst rounds out a superb team. Werner Kohl excels as the No. 1 replacement.

The man from Newburgh may be off his rocker and Coach Gilligan is going along on that premise. That's why the confrontation at Newburgh tonight could be a schoolboy classic.

Visitors Have 4 and 3 Record, 20 Point Scorer

Having survived the deep freeze outside and inside the Westchester gym at Valhalla Wednesday night, the Ulster County Community Senators return to the friendly confines of the municipal auditorium tonight.

Concordia Junior College of Bronxville comes to town with a 4-3 record and every reason to expect a warm reception from the 14-1 UCCC squad.

Game time is 8 p. m. and the preliminary will feature Biddy basketball league stars. A strong second half attack built around some revised strategy carried the Senators safely past Westchester, 83-56, though they dipped below the 100-point mark for only the fourth time in 15 games. Their first half total of 30 points was their lowest 20-minute production of the season.

Coach Pleased

But Coach Mike Perry, admitting it was "a different kind of game" for Ulster, was happy at the manner in which his Senators exploded in the second half to frustrate Westchester's stall tactics.

A 21-point second half enabled Joe Uhl to equal his seasonal average of 31 points, but Coach Perry was also impressed by the play of Mike Derrenbacher, Leon Hanna, Ty Quill, who had his best night of the season, and, of course, the omnipresent Frank Roselli.

Concordia's chief scoring threat is 5-foot-9 Ralph Thomas, a Calvin Murphy-type shooter who is averaging 20.6 points for seven games. The leading rebounder is Glen Martin, 6-foot-3, who has been averaging 20 rebounds a game.

Concordia has beaten Middlesex CC, 70-66; St. Pius, 104-68; and Westchester, 78-72; and Queensborough (score not reported). Its losses have come at the hands of State Island CC, 75-74; Norwalk Tech, 87-77; and Long Island Aggies of Farmingdale, 93-64.

Philadelphia-No Love for S.U.

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

You'd hardly associate a crack basketball team with a school that has the improbable name of Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science.

But when Coach Doug Shepard's State University New Paltz Hawks visit the City of Brotherly Love next Monday they are apt to find very little love and a great deal of trouble.

Philadelphia Textile is 8-1 on the season, having surrendered only to Kentucky Wesleyan, a perennial southern basketball power. KW, incidentally, lost only its second game last night against powerful Southern Illinois.

The Hawks, meanwhile, are 2-3 on the season, having lost 100-65 to Adelphi College Panthers this week. They have gone through the Philadelphia Textile crucible before, so they approach the trip to the historic Germantown section of Philly with equanimity.

Strong Second Half

State played a fine first half at Adelphi, trailing by only 45-36 but were overwhelmed, 55-29, after the recess.

Mark Schissler, a 6-2 senior, sparked Adelphi's second half thrust and finished with 35 points on an incredible 80 per cent performance, 14 for 18 from the field.

Ty Sands, the 6-foot former Monticello High star, poured 31 through the hoop for State U. above his 28.5 average for the first four games. He converted 13 free throws. Ed Shuster potted 13 for the Hawks.

The Panthers hit an excellent 57 per cent from the field (38 for 67) while State U finished with 33 per cent (20 for 60) mainly because of its second half slump. Adelphi picked up 24 of 33 free throw tries, while State had only 25 for 45.

Non-League Team

Philadelphia Textile, although a member of the Middle Atlantic Conference, operates as an independent with no league ties.

OCS, Marlboro on Spot

Homestanding New Paltz and Rondout Valley Central can give the UCAL basketball standings a thorough shaking up in the game against the leaders tonight.

The Huguenots (3-3) host the Ontario Central Indians (5-1) and if Rondout, a tartar at home, knocks off the other co-leader, Marlboro (5-1) there could be a triple for the lead when the action is over tonight.

Coach Chick Meehan's Ganders are conceded a good chance of knocking off Marlboro, while Ontario is prepared for all kind of trouble at New Paltz.

J. Watson Bailey's basketball team set a new school scoring record with 79 points and it was just enough to topple Newburgh North, 79-72, in a road game at Newburgh. The locals are now 2-1 and meet arch rival MJM on Jan. 26.

Don Williams led Bailey with 25 points and Jess Caprotti hit 20, in addition to controlling the boards with 14 rebounds. Dave Kwasonowski was a standout on defense for JWV.

Ron Smith of Newburgh led both teams with 27 points and Caprotti had 20.

Quintets Win in Tyro

In CYO Tryo league competition, St. Joseph's of Kingston routed St. Mary's, Saugerties, 36-6, and St. Mary's (Kingston) trounced St. Catherine Labourne, 44-12.

Gil Williams and Charles Belser of St. Mary's (K) hit 12 points each. Steve Van Kleeck led La bourne with 7. Three St. Joseph players — Jules Albertini, Tim Ross and Mike Eigo—collected eight points.

Victor Hanover Wins Roosevelt Feature

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Victor Hanover rallied in the closing strides to gain a nose victory over Nevele Way in the $10,000 Invitational Pace at Roosevelt Raceway on Thursday night.

Ben Steall, subbing for Billy Houghton, drove Vicar Hanover. The 7-year-old horse covered the mile in 2:05 3-5 and returned $9, $5.40 and $2.80. Nevele Way paid $9 and $4.80. Amphon finished third and paid $2.80.

KHS Skiers Second In Triangular Meet

Kingston High school's varsity ski squad, handicapped by the loss of Bart Dutto, suffered its first defeat of the season in a triangular meet Thursday at Holiday Mountain Ski Center near Monticello.

The host Monticello High squad placed first with a combined best time of 143.9 seconds for its five fastest skiers. Kingston was second with 148.8 and Highland Falls trailed with 171.7 seconds.

Best time down the 17-gate slalom course was turned in by Glenn Sonnenschein of Monticello, who was clocked in 24.8 seconds. Sonnenschein flashed across the finish line only a second ahead of Howard Brosseau of Highland Falls. Craig Frost and Bruce Reynolds of Kingston placed fourth and fifth, respectively.

Course conditions were described as extremely tight and crusty.

KHS Expects Trouble In Game at Newburgh

Long before tonight's climatic DUSO League basketball clash between unbeaten Kingston and Newburgh Academy, both 2-0, at Newburgh, the propaganda lines cracked between the two cities.

Wary as the Israeli ambassador awaiting the arrival of the Arab delegation, Coach Jack Gilligan of the favored Maroons said he wasn't buying . . . the Hill City line that he could name the score.

A Newburgh source predicted nothing but disaster for the 4-3 Goldbacks.

"They don't have much of a chance against Kingston," said the Hill City contact. "They (NFA) will have a lot of trouble with the press and they can't run with Kingston. The Maroons should be able to run them into the boards."

As a parting thrust, the pessimistic Newburgh expert quoted Coach Mickey Burkoski, one-time NFA athletic great, that Kingston would be able to name the score. Efforts to reach Burkoski for confirmation have failed.

"This is the best line of propaganda I've heard in a long time," said Coach Gilligan. "They must be trying to set us up for the kill."

"They lost to Philip Schuyler of Albany, the best team in the capital district by only six points," Gilligan went on. "And they led Schuyler at the end of three periods."

"About this young team stuff," said Gilligan building up a good head of steam, "they've played seven games and that young team label disappeared a long time ago."

Gilligan's demurrer is not expected to dissuade DUSO observers, who look for a great contest—and Kingston victory. The Maroons have beaten NFA on the Hill City boards in three of their last four meetings—twice with the Section 9 title at stake. Prior to that, however, Newburgh had been the graveyard for many a favored Kingston team.

NFA boasts a 6 foot 6 freshman center in Jim Rogers. Rounding out the top six are Bill Briggs, Martin Kemp, Gabe Powell, Nick Bucci and Sam Walker.

"Rogers (a freshman) should be on the Jayvees," said the Newburgh source. "He must be kidding," Gilligan countered.

The Kingston squad is in good shape physically and mentally for the showdown. It carries a 6-1 record and 91.2 per game scoring average into the contest, while limiting the opposition to 72.1.

Visitors Have 4 and 3 Record, 20 Point Scorer

Having survived the deep freeze outside and inside the Westchester gym at Valhalla Wednesday night, the Ulster County Community Senators return to the friendly confines of the municipal auditorium tonight.

Concordia Junior College of Bronxville comes to town with a 4-3 record and every reason to expect a warm reception from the 14-1 UCCC squad.

Game time is 8 p. m. and the preliminary will feature Biddy basketball league stars. A strong second half attack built around some revised strategy carried the Senators safely past Westchester, 83-56, though they dipped below the 100-point mark for only the fourth time in 15 games. Their first half total of 30 points was their lowest 20-minute production of the season.

Coach Pleased
But Coach Mike Perry, admitting it was "a different kind of game" for Ulster, was happy at the manner in which his Senators exploded in the second half to frustrate Westchester's stall tactics.

A 21-point second half enabled Joe Uhl to equal his seasonal average of 31 points, but Coach Perry was also impressed by the play of Mike Derrenbacher, Leon Hanna, Ty Quill, who had his best night of the season, and, of course, the omnipresent Frank Roselli.

Concordia Star
Concordia's chief scoring threat is 5-foot-9 Ralph Thomas, a Calvin Murphy-type shooter who is averaging 20.6 points for seven games. The leading rebounder is Glen Martin, 6-foot-3, who has been averaging 20 rebounds a game.

Concordia has beaten Middlesex CC, 70-66; St. Plus, 104-68; and Westchester, 78-72; and Queensborough (score not reported). Its losses have come at the hands of State Island CC, 75-74; Norwalk Tech, 87-77; and Long Island Aggies of Farmingdale, 93-64.

Philadelphia-No Love for S.U.

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

You'd hardly associate a crack basketball team with a school that has the improbable name of Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science.

But when Coach Doug Shepard's State University New Paltz Hawks visit the City of Brotherly Love next Monday they are apt to find very little love and a great deal of trouble.

Philadelphia Textile is 8-1 on the season, having surrendered only to Kentucky Wesleyan, a perennial southern basketball power. KW, incidentally, lost only its second game last night against powerful Southern Illinois.

The Hawks, meanwhile, are 2-3 on the season, having lost 100-65 to Adelphi College Panthers this week. They have gone through the Philadelphia Textile crucible before, so they approach the trip to the historic Germantown section of Philly with equanimity.

Strong Second Half
State played a fine first half at Adelphi, trailing by only 45-36 but were overwhelmed, 55-29, after the recess.

Mark Schissler, a 6-2 senior, sparked Adelphi's second half thrust and finished with 35 points on an incredible 80 per cent performance, 14 for 18 from the field.

Ty Sands, the 6-foot former Monticello High star, poured 13 through the hoop for State U, above his 28.5 average for the first four games. He converted 13 free throws. Ed Shuster potted 13 for the Hawks.

The Panthers hit an excellent 57 per cent from the field (38 for 67) while State U finished with 33 per cent (20 for 60) mainly because of its second half slump. Adelphi picked up 24 of 33 free throw tries, while State had only 25 for 45.

Non-League Team
Philadelphia Textile, although a member of the Middle Atlantic Conference, operates as an independent with no league ties.

It boasts tremendous team balance and its two top scorers are averaging 16 points a game.

—Harry Chapman, a senior guard, and Carl Poole, a 6-5 sophomore.

Besides Sands, Coach Shepard has two men in double figure averages—Shuster with 14.5 and Pece Kane at 14.3. The Hawks have averaged 76.8 points a game, while yielding 71.3. This obviously strong defense will get a major test Monday.

State returns home for a Jan. 20 date with Cortland of the SUNYAC, before embarking for road trips to Quinnipiac and Danbury.

deronia and New York Maritime.

Big Five Wins
In two DUSO starts, the Maroons demolished Middletown, 105-70, and topped Monticello 79-68. The latter score doesn't remotely approach the real story of the game. Meanwhile, NFA turned back Port Jervis and Liberty.

Kingston's new Big Five is clicking beautifully. A. J. (Andy) Murphy has had four straight big games and is averaging 21 on 147 points. Bruce Gilligan is at 21.9 and Ken Gilligan at 14. Ted Wood shows a 9.1 average and with Ray Lindhorne rounds out a superb team. Werner Koll excels as the No. 1 replacement.

Assign 234 Days To Horse Racing

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Racing Association, with an eye to the

SITZ-M-A-R-K-S

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

The word out of Rosendale is encouraging. The diverse factions involved in the promotion of ski jumping and cross country skiing apparently have decided that instead of knocking heads it would be better to put them together and get the winter show on the road.

At a little publicized meeting this week, cool heads (what other kind are there these days) got together and restored attorney William F. Curran to his rightful post as tournament director for the big weekend of Jan. 27-28. Those are the dates for the annual Rosendale Trophy Race and the New York State Combined Championships. Jumping for the Rosendale Trophy starts at 1 p. m. on Saturday, Jan. 27, on the Mt. Joppenbergh hill. Earlier in the day, the cross country ski racing of the New York State Combined gets under way at 10 a. m. at Williams Lake.

Jumping for the Combined takes place Sunday at 1 p. m. Contestants are judged on adjusted ratings in cross country and jumping, ergo the term combined.

ROGER DION and DUKE SCHNEIDER, a pair of Rosendale favorites, each have a leg on the Rosendale Trophy which must be won three times for permanent possession.

Curran, who is responsible for recruiting entries, hopes to come up with a prize plum—17-year-old Jay Rand of Northwood School, Lake Placid, who led the Class A jumping event at Bear Mountain last Saturday.

"J-J has assured me that he will come to our jump, if he doesn't make the Olympic team," said Curran. "The only catch is that he seems like a cinch for the squad."

Curran rates Rand, although still officially a "junior" jumper, among the top 10 United States performers. "Our jumpers have not been doing too well in the pre-Olympic events in Europe," said the veteran observer. "You have to concede Jay a good chance to make the team. In addition to his Bear Mountain triumph, Rand placed second to John Bower in the recent Brattleboro, Vt. tournament."

RAND HAS NEVER appeared at Rosendale but, ironically, he was scheduled to make the trek from Lake Placid just about two years ago, and, maybe you've forgotten it but a winter "heat wave" early in January forced cancellation of the event.

Rand, who could develop into the biggest name in U.S. ski jumping history, is the son of Jay Rand Sr., who in 1941 captured the New York State championship at Rosendale, when the historic village was the Eastern capital of ski jumping.

Observers of that period regarded the senior Rand as a greater jumper than Art Devlin, who later became a U.S. Olympic star and dominated the field in the 1940's. Rand fell upon hard times and never fulfilled his early promise.

Rand will participate in the U.S. Olympic trials in his hometown this weekend and the list of ski riders who will vie for the four U.S. Olympic spots is impressive.

THE YOUNG HIGH SCHOOL ace faces strong opposition from such prominent veterans as John Balfanz and Jay Martin of Minneapolis; Adrian Watt and Dave Lundmark of Duluth; Randy Garretson of Seattle and John Bower, who edged Rand at Brattleboro.

The Nordic combined event has drawn among others John Ehrensbeck, who was a teammate of Ed Williams of Rosendale on the U.S. Army Biathlon squad. Williams' impressive showing in the Biathlon trials thrilled Ulster County winter sports fans. His father, Walter Williams, is a pioneer ski enthusiast in Ulster County and area fans will be watching Ed's progress in the Olympics with great interest.

SCHUSS NOTES:
Ace quarterback Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys spent two days at Hunter Mountain last week along with Lance Alworth of the San Diego Chargers and champion cowboy Larry Mahon filming some magazine ads for a new line of sweaters. Young Bart Dutto's unfortunate mishap was a sad blow to the Kingston High ski varsity hopes. . . St. Lawrence U. stages its 35th annual Winter Carnival Feb. 3-4 at Canton. . . Great news for skiing families, Big Bromley, Vt. has again announced plans for a gala family weekend, with children 14 years old and younger skiing free on Jan. 20-21. . . Want the latest ski conditions in Switzerland? Call 212-757-6336. . . Killington, Vt., one of the country's most publicized ski layouts, claims the world's longest ski lift—a 3½-mile gondola with a 3100-foot vertical drop. No thank you, I get airsick. The Sports Council of Saranac Lake Chamber of Commerce has finalized plans for its third annual World Championship Measured Mile Snowmobile Speed Event Saturday, Feb. 3 at Lake Colby. The defending champion, Bob Eastman of Minnesota, hit 78 MPH in winning the title last year. . . How about the (no pun), Bone-chilling item out of Gore Mt.—where sub-zero temperature multiplied by wind velocity created a "chill factor" of 110 below zero! But then didn't I read somewhere that 53,000 football nuts endured —13 to watch their heroes in action.

The Big 'O' Crushes Celt Blitz

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fans at Cleveland saw Bill Russell give a big scoring performance and the Boston Celtics put on one of their patented blitzes. They also saw Oscar Robertson doing what he does so well—nullify good scoring performances and blitzes.

Russell scored 34 points, and the Celtics scored 16 straight points in 3 minutes, 18 seconds of the second period for a 19-point lead against Cincinnati Thursday night.

But Robertson scored 40 points including four foul shots in the last nine seconds and the Royals beat Boston 120-116.

In the only other NBA game, Zelmos Beatty scored five points and Len Wilkens eight in the last 4½ minutes as the St. Louis Hawks beat the Bulls 108-101 at Baltimore.

Beatty finished with 30 points and Wilkens 19. Early Monroe topped Baltimore with 32.

In American Basketball Association games Thursday night, New Jersey downed Minnesota 110-96, Pittsburgh trounced Indiana 138-115, Denver beat Houston 100-93, New Orleans edged Anaheim 131-124 in overtime and Kentucky nipped Oakland 110-106.

PORTLAND, Maine — Gene Herrick, 150½, Saco, Maine, stopped Joey Garraway, 149, New York, 5.

LOS ANGELES — Bobby Murray, 146½, San Francisco, knocked out Art Cruz, 145, Wilmington, Calif., 3.

Packers Are (Hand) Picked

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — With all due respect to young Darryl Lamonica and his 30 touchdown passes that led Oakland to its first American Football League title, Sunday's Super Bowl game belongs to Bart Starr and the proven old pros from Green Bay.

In the last go round of a long, long season, the old hand-picked has to go the Packers to make it two in a row for the National Football League over the AFL champs. Let's take a shot at the score:

Green Bay 31, Oakland 16.

If it's close, 40-year-old George Blanda and his ability to kick the long field goal could mean an upset victory for the two-touchdown underdogs from Oakland. But that would mean that Oakland must be able to clump down on Starr and his wide receivers—Boyd Dowler and Carroll Dale—while cracking the stubborn Packer defense.

Oakland does not appear to have the man-for-man talent of the Kansas City Chiefs, who fell before the Packers last year 35-10. Still, the Raiders must have a better over-all team because they marched through the AFL with a 13-1 record and beat Kansas City twice, 23-21 and 44-22.

Tops on Defense

Johnny Rauch's Raiders led the league in total defense and rushing defense and were first in scoring with 468 points. Their offense was third in average yardage, both running and passing.

Green Bay was ninth in the NFL in total offense, second in running and 11th in passing. It was first in total defense, 13th (an amazing figure) in running defense and first in pass defense.

Although the Packers allowed an average of 197 yards per game on running during the regular season, they gave up but 11 touchdowns on the ground and 13 in the air for a total of 24. The Raiders, who scored 58 touchdowns to 39 for Green Bay, yielded 29 in all, 11 on runs and 18 on passes.

But all of this presupposes that the competition is equal, and the figures do not back that up. The Packers did win the first Super Bowl and the NFL did take 13 of 16 pre-season exhibitions.

Starr, a 33-year-old veteran of 12 pro seasons, has been here before. He proved his cool once again on that frigid New Year's Eve in Green Bay when he sneaked home from the one for the winner with 13 seconds to go. Although he was below par in early season and was intercepted nine times in the first two games, he closed strong.

Starr is a past master at will be in the holes. If the deep defense shuts off Dowler and Dale, he Bay linebackers with his passes.

will go to Donny Anderson and Chuck Mercein.

Lamonica, 25, in his fifth year, actually is completing his first as a No. 1 quarterback. He had a great year with 30 touchdowns and 220 completions in 425 attempts. He was intercepted 20 times to Starr's 17. It remains to be seen how he will be in the Packer rush.

Niagara U--- And Old Cliches

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)

In announcing his resignation as Niagara University's varsity basketball coach, Jim Maloney charged he was "hampered" in the areas of recruiting and scheduling.

In his surprise announcement Thursday, the 32-year-old Maloney, a former cage star for the Purple Eagles, said he planned to leave the campus when his three-year contract expired at the end of this season.

Maloney asserted that he had been "hampered regarding recruitment and scheduling" since being "asked to assume the head coaching chore" 2½ years ago.

"This has continued and increased to the point that it has become unbearable, not only to myself, but to the members of my team, my staff and my family," he added.

The apparent target of Maloney's wrath was John J. "Taps" Gallagher, Niagara's coach for 31 years who doubled as athletic director for many of them and continues in that capacity.

Lack of Communication
Gallagher replied that a "breakdown of communications" between him and Maloney was a factor in the problem.

"The first time he initiated a call to me in two years was the day before freshman registration last September," he told a reporter.

Maloney, Gallagher asserted, "has had a free hand in the area of recruiting" and had obtained all of the freshmen, sophomores and juniors now playing for the school.

One, sophomore Calvin Murphy, is the nation's second-leading scorer with a 38.9 average. He has been hobbled lately by knee trouble, however, and his point production has suffered.

The team has a 5-6 season record.

Gallagher admitted that scheduling was his responsibility and said he had talked to Maloney about it.

"Sure, his first schedule was challenging," Gallagher added. "I arranged it thinking I'd be the coach. Yet we played the caliber of opponents we always had faced."

Counter Charges
Maloney "had a lot of people doing things for him" that Gallagher had to assume himself while also coaching, he declared.

Student-made signs that read Maloney Must GO and "win Despite Jim" were in evidence at Niagara's game against visiting Villanova last Monday night. Backing by players and student petition of support also were reported on campus, however.

The name of Larry Costello, another former Niagara greeter, who retired recently from the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association because of injury, has been mentioned in reports of Maloney's possible successor.

Contacted at his home in suburban Philadelphia, Costello said he had no definite plans but "would be willing to listen to offers." He added that he "would be guided by what is best for my family and myself."

Costello reportedly was offered a contract at Niagara three months before the start of the current season.

Wurster Shares Skating Lead

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)

John Wurster of Ballston Spa, N.Y., and Diane Holm of Northbrook, Ill., hold the best times in the initial heats of the Olympic speed-skating trials at the Wisconsin Exposition Center.

Wurster's time Thursday in the first trial of the 500-meter event was 41.4 seconds. Tom Gray of Minneapolis was second and Terry McDermott of Bingham, Mich., third.

Miss Holm placed first first in the 3,000-meter trial. Her time was 5:27.2. Jeanne Melenchuk of Warren, Mich., was second and Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, N.Y., was third.

Forty-six skaters are competing in the trials. The women's team will be chosen Tuesday and the men's team Wednesday.

Ron Draper and Pete Maravich both faced pressure foul situations. Both came through.

Drake's Draper was at the foul line for two free throws with one second left and the Crusaders tied 74-74 with Wichita State Thursday night.

He missed the first one but made the second, and Drake won its 11th game in 13 starts.

It was the other side of the coin for Louisiana State's Maravich, who played most of the second half against Tulane facing disqualification because he had committed four fouls.

But this didn't seem to greatly impair the helter-skelter style of the nation's leading major-college scorer. He poured in 52 points as LSU beat Tulane 100-91 at New Orleans to boost its record to 9-3. Maravich has scored 540 points in those 12 games for a 45.8 average.

Gets Two Chances
Draper got the two chances to score his 14th point of the night at Des Moines, Iowa, when Drake's Al Williams stole the ball with 38 seconds remaining. Willie McCarter led Drake scorers with 18 points, Warren Armstrong got 22 for Wichita, whose leading scorer, Ron Washington, fouled out after scoring just nine points.

The St. Louis at Dayton game also was decided by a foul shot. This one was made by Bob Hooper with 20 seconds left for a 56-56 Dayton victory. Don May, who tied the game at 56-56 with 3:14 left, scored 21 points and tied his own Dayton record of 28 rebounds. Rich Niemann paced St. Louis with 18 points.

None of The Associated Press Top Ten played Thursday night. And only top-ranked UCLA is scheduled to see action tonight, against California.

No. 2 Team Loses
In another Thursday night game, Kentucky Wesleyan, the No. 2 small college team, lost its second straight game, 63-62 to Southern Illinois at Owensboro, Ky.

Again it was foul shots that made the difference. Bobby Jackson sank two with 1:07 to play to give the victory to Southern Illinois, a former small-college power, now listed as a major college.

Home-court victories included Marquette's 71-56 trouncing of Wisconsin. Mississippi State's 80-64 drubbing of Delta State and New Mexico State's 81-71 defeat of Southern Colorado.

Virginia edged Clemson 95-92. Virginia Tech topped Richmond 80-71. Rhode Island walloped Northeastern 81-66 and San Jose State downed St. Mary's, Calif., 76-69.

Hollywood Buildup For Lara Lindsay

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "They don't teach you to be a starlet. They teach you to be a star, and that's what I want to be."

That is the ambition of Lara Lindsay, and she is being helped toward her goal by the most intensive star-building program ever instituted in Hollywood—the 20th Century-Fox school for new talent.

For 10 years the film industry, out of economic necessity, ignored the grooming of new stars. Studios felt they could no longer employ and train dozens of young hopefuls, a few of whom might turn into stellar attractions. The result: as the established stars died or faded away, there were few new ones to take their places. Box-office stars became fewer in number and higher in cost.

Realized Need

With its return to prosperity, 20th Century-Fox realized the urgent need to replenish the talent pool. The Zanucks, father and son, established a program under the supervision of talent executives Owen McLean and Jack Bauer. Today a score of young hopefuls are enrolled in the compulsory curriculum. Universal also has a talent school, but attendance is voluntary.

Lara Lindsay is one of the most promising Fox students. The name sounds a bit artificial, and it is. She was born Gladys Jacobs in Chicago, started skating at an early age and ended up in the icecapades and other shows. She married an interior designer, became mother of a son, now 4. When the marriage started to break up, she capitalized on her blue-eyed, auburn-haired beauty by doing commercials on television in Tucson, Ariz. Her pay: $15 per commercial.

Then it happened—one of those chance events upon which acting careers are built. The Paramount Western "El Dorado" came to Tucson and Lara got a job standing in for Charlene Holt. Coworkers encouraged her to come to Hollywood. She did.

Lara went through the heart-breaking routine of trying to interest an agent in presenting her to the studios. She finally obtained one, also a new name —Lara from "Dr. Zhivago." Lindsay from a brother—and a rearranged set of teeth.

The agent took her first to 20th Century-Fox, where talent executives were enough impressed to order a personality test on film—in which the hopeful answers questions on camera to determine whether the personality comes across. After a couple of readings in dramatic scenes, Lara was signed Dec. 12, 1966, to a term contract starting at $175 a week.

Her schooling began immediately. "It's an intensive schedule, from 10 to 5 every day, five days a week," she explained. "And you must attend everything. If you have too many unexcused absences, your salary is reduced."

"But it doesn't make sense not to attend. We're getting the best schooling a performer could find in Hollywood, and we're paid for it. I couldn't possibly afford the kind of classes I get at the studio."

240 Students Hear UCCC Telelecture

About 240 students at Ulster County Community College, Syracuse University and Utica College were joined together Thursday for an experiment in education—a telelecture to hear a talk on advertising.

The lecture, given by Robert H. DeRosa, of the marketing department of the New York Telephone Co., originated in a new electronically controlled teaching auditorium in the John Burroughs Science Building at UCCC. It was beamed by telephone to students who heard it at the same time at Utica College and Syracuse University.

Welcome by Erbsstein

The students and faculty members at Syracuse University and Utica College were welcomed to the lecture by Dr. George B. Erbsstein, the UCCC president.

"I want to welcome you and your students to Ulster County Community College in spirit and voice to an exciting experiment in bringing students and faculty from distant places to learn and discuss a topic of mutual interest," Erbsstein said. "I hope that the results of this experiment will be the beginning of a continuing method of getting together to exchange ideas. Of course, discussions of this nature will enhance and enlarge our educational goals."

DeRosa called this telelecture just a beginning and predicted that in the future such educational lectures will be beamed to 10 or more colleges at a time and will go across the entire nation.

DeRosa addressed the business students at the three educational institutions as "the future business decision makers." He called the lecture a "two-way exchange of information" and continually asked for questions from students at the three locations.

Dutchess Driver Cited After Mishap

A 23-year-old Dutchess County man was injured and cited by Rhinebeck State Police early today after his 1959 convertible went out of control and overturned off Clinton Hollow Road, Town of Clinton.

Trooper J. S. McLean reported Charles F. Gise, of Salt Point, was driving his car north on the road when the vehicle veered off the right side of the pavement and came to a stop upside down.

Gise, who sustained a laceration of the forehead, but refused medical attention, troopers said. He was summoned for failure to change his address on a driver's license.

Mediation Guest

The Rev. Donald Rudolph, pastor of Bethel Assembly of God Church, Kingston, will be the speaker for Morning Meditations on WGHQ, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning at 6:15 this coming week.

The program is sponsored by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association.

Centerville Home Saved Despite Frozen Lines

Although they were handicapped by frozen hoses and only two fire trucks and only had one hose that was useable, volunteer firefighters today saved the new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmenko, Box 459, Van Buskirk Road, Centerville.

Deputy Fire Chief Thomas Brennan was in command of firemen from Centerville and Cedar Grove, who fought the flames in below zero weather.

He said the kitchen area of the new house was gutted and heavy smoke and water damage was reported in other parts of the frame home.

Brennan reported that Centerville Pumper 121 and Engine 1 and Cedar Grove Engine 2 responded to the alarm sounded shortly before 7:35 a. m. On arrival at the Schmenko residence they found fire sweeping the kitchen area and heavy smoke.

Firemen quickly discovered the hoses and nozzles on Engine 1 and Cedar Grove's apparatus were frozen solid and both trucks were immediately sent back to their stations to thaw out. Brennan said only one hose line on Pumper 121 was operative and provided the only source of water for firemen to combat the blaze. Occupants of the house left without incident and notified firefighters that two pet poodles were still inside. Firemen groped their way through smoke and found the dogs under a bed and carried them to safety.

"We had only the water from one hose line on one truck," Brennan said. "The men did a good job and it was lucky we were able to save the home."

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. Fire units were back in service shortly before 9 a. m.

Dear Abby

Single at 57, Likes It

(C 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Where does everyone get the silly idea that if a woman isn't married she is a lonely, miserable, sex-starved creature? I am 57 years old, could easily pass for 45, and I don't know a married woman I'd trade places with. I have four boy friends going at once, have a good-paying position, a home of my own, trade my car every other year, and I can do what I please with my own money. I don't have to eat my heart out over a cheating husband, and I wouldn't have one around again on a full time basis for anything in the world. I am single by choice after having been married long enough to know what it's like. I like it better this way.

DEAR ABBY: You recently had a letter in your column from a service man who complained because he didn't get any mail. One very important question. Did he WRITE to anybody? My own case: My boy friend (fiance) called me collect last MAY from Massachusetts, where he was in an army school. He said he was being shipped out the following day and would write to me as soon as he had an address where I could write to him.

In JUNE he sent me a postcard from Athens, Greece. He said he was having a "great" time and was on his way to Ethiopia. (Still no address where I could write to him.)

In AUGUST he wrote from Ethiopia saying he had been there for two months and it wasn't bad at all. This time he included an address, so I answered his letter right away and I haven't heard from him since. He complained in his letter that nobody had written to him. (I wonder where he expected them to address their letters?) He isn't in a war zone, and he is not suffering any hardships because he writes that he is living in a bungalow and is teaching at the university at night. What do you think if this?

DEAR DISGUSTED: I think your fiance is lazy, inconsiderate, and something less than gung ho about you. And unless he can explain his long silences, shower him with indifference.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal unpublished reply, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR Saturday

January 13, 1968

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Steer clear of in-law trouble. Means don't become involved in quarrel not rightly your own. Sense of humor can be greatly ally. Know this and respond accordingly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Money situation could appear erratic. Does no good to become upset with loved one. Be analytical. You gain if perceptive and confident. Ill wind soon blows away.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Conditions at home subject to sudden change. Works out in your favor. At first you may feel panic of temporary lack of security. But your cycle is high. You will win.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Harmony can be restored if you are so determined. Gain cooperation of those at home. Strive for greater stability. Accurate on message which adds to current knowledge.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Don't fall into trap of self-deception. Look behind the scenes. Don't accept information without double checking. Be willing to probe deep. Then you come up with valuable answers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some of your desires are not practical. You tend to want too much too soon. Correct this by concentrating on essentials. Fulfill potential—handle added responsibility.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Finish what you start. Expand fields of interest. Stress today on long-range projects, correspondence, journeys. Creative thinking favored. Be a leader rather than a follower.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money that you handle or invest for others is spotlighted. Make intentions crystal clear. Avoid loss of friendship by getting facts on the record. Then there is less chance of confusion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): To accomplish goal you require co-operation. Must come from those of various viewpoints. Means you cannot act or think in narrow manner. Open mind to the new, daring.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get chance to go places and meet people. Shake off lethargy. Express confidence in your own abilities. One you previously worked with gets in touch. Don't bear grudges.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Obstacles are overcome despite initial red tape, possible discouragement. Accent on breaking through to heart of matters. Many want to gossip and speculate. Insist on facts.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): No status quo today. Partners, associates, contracts subject to sudden change. Adjust. Be ready and versatile. Don't be caught short. Utilize element of surprise to personal advantage.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are down-to-earth when it comes to helping others. You believe in warmth and a full stomach. This is in contrast to some who could sermonize when what is required is wholesome food. This symbolizes what you are: a person who can be relied upon to understand basic needs in time of emergency. Start made last year offers some tests, challenges. But an older woman will provide valuable aid.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for GEMINI, CANCER, LEO. Special word to PISCES: mate or partner is going through rather eccentric period. Be understanding.

BORN FREE

DEAR BORN: I'll bet your boy friends like it better, too.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 26 years. During this time my mother has stolen several petty items from my home. They have not amounted to very much — certainly not enough to make a fuss about, but it has been very difficult for me to remain silent when I see them in her home.

The latest item, however, is a dinner ring my husband gave me for my 25th wedding anniversary. If I still had it I would wear it only on special occasions, but my mother never takes it off her finger. Every time I see her wearing my ring it makes me sick and nervous.

How can she be so heartless? My husband says that I am "nuts"—that I should ask my mother for my ring, but I cannot bring myself to say the words. Can you tell me what to do? I hate scenes and trouble.

HEARTSICK: My dear lady, your mother cannot possibly be of sound mind to steal a ring from you and wear it constantly in your presence. If you don't get your mother to a doctor and investigate her mental condition, your husband will have just cause to be concerned about your own.

Opening lead—♥ Q

Ever so often we are asked if it is possible for an expert to recognize a sure squeeze as soon as he sees the dummy. The answer is a resounding NO, but we have seen slams claimed on a squeeze as soon as third hand plays to the first trick.

Here is one that we, or at least the older half of us, remember from the first days of contract. Oswald Jacoby was North, and when the late Ely Culbertson was able to bid three no-trump over East's three club preempt, Oswald raised the Professor (Ely was called that and deservedly so) to six no-trump.

West opened the queen of hearts. Ely looked over dummy carefully and played the deuce. East discarded a club whereupon Ely spread his hand and said, "Six on a squeeze."

Needless to say, the opponents objected but Ely proceeded to make the hand as advertised. He started by dropping a low heart from his own hand. This is what is known today as rectifying the count. He had 11 top tricks and needed 12, so he lost one trick right off the bat.

West led a second heart. Ely won that in dummy and ran off four diamond tricks. He discarded a spade and a club from his own hand. Then he cashed in the king and ace of clubs and king of hearts. This left dummy with four spades it had started with, while Ely held two spades, a low heart and a low club.

He turned to West and said, "You still hold a heart. You can't have more than three spades." He turned to East and said, "You still have a club. You can't have more than three spades."

Then he turned to the assembled audience and said, "The spades are all good. Six on a squeeze—just as I announced at trick one." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Quick Quiz

Q—Which U.S. president delivered the shortest inaugural address?

facile (FAS-1)

The two young men, filling out applications for position as warehousemen, were told by the foreman that the work was not at all facile for inexperienced people.

Most of the crowd was astonished as they watched the tightrope walker casually stroll across the wire; he claims it was really facile.

After his older sister had told him how facile it was to learn to dance, Tom, a fellow who was naturally clumsy, claims he would enroll for instructions tomorrow.

'Explorations' for All Ages

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Trail of Stanley and Livingstone," the first of NBC's occasional "Great Exploration" series, is the kind of worthy program that good, responsible parents want their children to see. If they happen to be people who enjoy travelogues, they will sit down with the kids and watch.

The hour-long special would have gone down easier in a Sunday afternoon time period. It was a documentary—a sort of fancied-up safari in the African wilds. The fancy part was its central figure, former astronaut John Glenn who headed the party and explained where they were and what they were seeing—impressive landscapes, wild animals, colorful natives.

Following Footsteps

The excuse for the program was that the party of 30 or so persons were following the path of reporter Henry Stanley when, for a journalistic scoop almost one hundred years ago, he spent 236 days hunting for missionary David Livingstone. At journey's end, he uttered the immortal line: "Dr. Livingstone I presume?"

Portions of Stanley's journal, telling of hardship, disease and mutiny among his bearers, were read occasionally. But generally, it stretched the viewer's credibility to try to relate the Stanley expedition to the emergence of African nations today.

Glenn, a pleasant, attractive fellow, seemed to enjoy his African experiences for the most part, and seemed appalled occasionally at the conditions of life he found. At one point, however, the producers felt that the program was becoming a bit tedious—they were correct—so they spiced it up by showing Glenn and company shooting a one-tusked elephant.

As is customary in a television program showing hunting scenes, the elephant was described as a "rogue," and had to be dispatched. This portion, even if the elephant hunt was justified, was distasteful to some segments of the viewing audience.

Would you like to break the cigarette habit? CBS, in a somewhat novel approach in its forthcoming "National Smoking Test," will try to offer some constructive suggestions.

The program, to be broadcast next Tuesday, will offer not lectures on the dangers of smoking, but will present the "Insight Development Questionnaire." Designed by an expert on the subject, it will permit the individual viewer to find some clues about his personal make-up and suggest the reasons he smokes or does not smoke. This self-knowledge, the producer of the series suggests, may help him take the first giant step toward breaking the habit.

Hope's Yule Special

The television program that year in and year out attracts a peak audience will occupy its usual 90 minutes of NBC time next Thursday evening—Bob Hope's Christmas Special. As usual, the program will consist of edited film shot during Hope's holiday tour to entertain American service men in Vietnam. It will pre-empt "Ironside" and "Dragnet" on Jan. 18.

Recommended tonight: "Hollywood Squares," NBC, 9:30-10 EST, premiere of a night time edition of a day-time game show based on Tic-Tac-Toe.

ABC will postpone its scheduled broadcast of "Laura," starring Lee Bouvier Radziwill for one week and join the other two major networks on Jan. 17 in covering live President Johnson's state of the union address.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

Trade Mark Reg.

Near my home a sycamore tree, leaning upon a fence post for many years has grown over the top of the post in such manner that it appears to be swallowing it-- Gamiel Story, Byrdstown, Tenn.

The office secretary presented the salesman's card to her boss, who promptly tore it in two and tossed it in the trash basket.

Mr. Smith—Tell him I can't see him.

But when the secretary delivered the message, the salesman smiled.

Mr. Jones—Then ask him if I may have my card back; they're expensive.

Sputtering, the boss gave his secretary a quarter for the salesman.

Mr. Jones—Tell him they're two for a quarter.

The salesman got to see his client.

The salesman got to see his client.

The salesman got to see his client.

The salesman got to see his client.

The salesman got to see his client.

The salesman got to see his client.

'Explorations' for All Ages

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Trail of Stanley and Livingstone," the first of NBC's occasional "Great Exploration" series, is the kind of worthy program that good, responsible parents want their children to see. If they happen to be people who enjoy travelogues, they will sit down with the kids and watch, too.

The hour-long special would have gone down easier in a Sunday afternoon time period. It was a documentary—a sort of fancied-up safari in the African wilds. The fancy part was its central figure, former astronaut John Glenn who headed the party and explained where they were and what they were seeing—impressive landscapes, wild animals, colorful natives.

Following Footsteps

The excuse for the program was that the party of 30 or so persons were following the path of reporter Henry Stanley when, for a journalistic scoop almost one hundred years ago, he spent 236 days hunting for missionary David Livingstone. At journey's end, he uttered the immortal line: "Dr. Livingstone I presume?"

Portions of Stanley's journal, telling of hardship, disease and mutiny among his bearers, were read occasionally. But generally, it stretched the viewer's credibility to try to relate the Stanley expedition to the emergence of African nations today.

Glenn, a pleasant, attractive fellow, seemed to enjoy his African experiences for the most part, and seemed appalled occasionally at the conditions of life he found. At one point, however, the producers felt that the program was becoming a bit tedious—they were correct—so they spiced it up by showing Glenn and company shooting a one-tusked elephant.

As is customary in a television program showing hunting scenes, the elephant was described as a "rogue," and had to be dispatched. This portion, even if the elephant hunt was justified, was distasteful to some segments of the viewing audience.

Would you like to break the cigarette habit? CBS, in a somewhat novel approach in its forthcoming "National Smoking Test," will try to offer some constructive suggestions.

The program, to be broadcast next Tuesday, will offer not lectures on the dangers of smoking, but will present the "In-sight" Development Questionnaire. Designed by an expert on the subject, it will permit the individual viewer to find some clues about his personal make-up and suggest the reasons he smokes or does not smoke. This self-knowledge, the producer of the series suggests, may help him take the first giant step toward breaking the habit.

Hope's Yule Special

The television program that year in and year out attracts a peak audience will occupy its usual 90 minutes of NBC time next Thursday evening—Bob Hope's Christmas Special.

As usual, the program will consist of edited film shot during Hope's holiday tour to entertain American service men in Vietnam. It will pre-empt "Ironside" and "Dragnet" on Jan. 18.

ABC will postpone its scheduled broadcast of "Laura," starring Lee Remick, for one week and join the other two major networks on Jan. 17 in covering live President Johnson's state of the union address.

Recommended tonight: "Hollywood Squares," NBC, 9:30-10 EST, premiere of a night time edition of a day-time game show based on Tic-Tac-Toe.

Portions of Stanley's journal, telling of hardship, disease and mutiny among his bearers, were read occasionally. But generally, it stretched the viewer's credibility to try to relate the Stanley expedition to the emergence of African nations today.

Glenn, a pleasant, attractive fellow, seemed to enjoy his African experiences for the most part, and seemed appalled occasionally at the conditions of life he found. At one point, however, the producers felt that the program was becoming a bit tedious—they were correct—so they spiced it up by showing Glenn and company shooting a one-tusked elephant.

As is customary in a television program showing hunting scenes, the elephant was described as a "rogue," and had to be dispatched. This portion, even if the elephant hunt was justified, was distasteful to some segments of the viewing audience.

Would you like to break the cigarette habit? CBS, in a somewhat novel approach in its forthcoming "National Smoking Test," will try to offer some constructive suggestions.

The program, to be broadcast next Tuesday, will offer not lectures on the dangers of smoking, but will present the "In-sight" Development Questionnaire. Designed by an expert on the subject, it will permit the individual viewer to find some clues about his personal make-up and suggest the reasons he smokes or does not smoke. This self-knowledge, the producer of the series suggests, may help him take the first giant step toward breaking the habit.

Hanoi Sends Troops Around DMZ to Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam is sending troops around the western end of the Demilitarized Zone into Laos in bigger than usual numbers, military sources report.

Officers say the development means Hanoi is making sure its embattled units in South Vietnam get adequate fighting replacements for action during the favored dry weather period. Officers said Thursday they also expect the Communists are beefing up for a wave of attacks on U.S. and allied outposts, especially in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces, in the next few weeks.

Four to Five Divisions

The gathering of Communist forces in Laos—a heavily infiltrated area—also is being construed by some military men as evidence North Vietnam isn't really sincere in what appeared to be a recent peace feeler by Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh.

Best available figures at the Pentagon show four to five enemy divisions roaming within 50 miles of the DMZ and around its western end in Laos—a point of end-around infiltration. Most units have been there some time.

This would range between 32,000 and 50,000 troops. In addition, sources report, there are indications additional units have been filtering into that area.

The Pentagon, asked about reports of a serious buildup, refused to comment on what intelligence reports show about enemy activity north and west of the DMZ. This is standard practice.

But sources said implications that a massive invasion is imminent appear to be ill-founded at this point.

Latest infiltration figures show the North Vietnamese moved 600 troops—by actual count, according to sources—into South Vietnam in December. But in addition, prisoner interrogation, documents and information from other sources showed 3,500 to 5,000 troops probably infiltrated.

Order Copters To Bring Out Crash Victims

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, Nev. (AP) — Three helicopters have been assigned to recover the bodies of 19 men killed in a Marine transport plane crash on a snowy, windswept mountain crag in desolate northeastern Nevada.

19 Victims

The Defense Department listed the number of victims at 19, reporting that a 20th man left the plane at Denver Wednesday before it began the last and fatal leg of a flight over one of the West's bleakest regions.

The 12th Naval District in San Francisco, supervising rescue operations, ordered the high-altitude "copters to Nevada from El Toro Marine Corps base in Southern California.

One reached Fallon, Nev., late Thursday, refueled, then flew to the Battle Mountain airstrip to await dawn before attempting to reach the scene of the crash on 9,978-foot Mt. Tobin.

The Navy said the other two "copters were held overnight at Sacramento, Calif., but would fly to Mt. Tobin at daybreak.

If the rocky, precipitous slopes of Mt. Tobin prove too difficult for the helicopters, planes were made to tackle the peak with motorized sleds. Failing at this, rescue mission spokesmen said the assignment would be turned over to ground parties.

Two searchers from the Federal Bureau of Land Management, Wally Swanson and Gene Corbridge, reached the fire-blackened fuselage Thursday afternoon after a perilous ascent.

They quickly located 12 scattered bodies and were sure that all the other Marines were dead in the snow.

An Air Force plane dropped food and sleeping bags and Swanson and Corbridge spent the night on the frigid mountain-side 32 miles southwest of Battle Mountain.

They reported 22 inches of snow on Mt. Tobin, though in some areas near the wreck huge, jagged outcroppings stuck out above the snow.

Burned to Crisp
Swanson and Corbridge, after climbing for six hours, reported the Marine CS4 transport "burned to a crisp except the tail."

The plane was carrying a Marine combat team on a 10-day Western tour from Quantico, Va. En route to Seattle when icing on the wing forced the plane down, it crashed on its belly, then slid backward 400 feet into a depression where it burst into flame.

The Marine who left the plane when it stopped over in Denver was Cpl. Robert Beard 19. He and Miss Paul Davis were anxious to announce their engagement, and that fact saved him from being aboard the transport when it crashed.

The corporal said he got special permission to start his leave early when he heard the plane was leaving Quantico, Va., last Monday.

"I only had six days leave and was in a hurry to get home to become engaged," he said.

It takes weeks for intelligence people to check out the "probable" figure. This number generally turns out to be accurate, if not conservative.

"We can expect attacks in the next few weeks against such places as Khe San, Dak To and other areas" in the northern and central highlands of South Vietnam, an officer stated.

Similar actions in the past have come in what is loosely termed the spring offensive of the Communists.

Could Be for Needs

This officer felt the manpower buildup beyond what is normally noted in Laos probably is related more to enemy replacement needs than to startling new enemy maneuvers.

Marines Beefed Up Move to Meet Red Threat

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Marine force in South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces increased to 35,000 men today as another regiment was moved north to meet the threat of North Vietnamese divisions around the demilitarized zone.

Senior Marine officers said there are indications that the Communist troops will concentrate on the provinces of Quang Tri, which fronts the DMZ, and Thua Thien, just below it, in their expected spring offensive in the north.

About Equal Now

The shift of the 3,500-man 5th Marine Regiment from an operating area south of Da Nang gives the Marines three more maneuver battalions—which can cover a wide area and aren't tied down in static defensive positions—in Thua Thien. Only two Marine battalions had been operating in the province generally.

The enlarged Marine force, together with about 12,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen, makes the allied and Communist forces in the DMZ theater of war about equal in manpower, according to intelligence reports.

Marine officers in the know said the 5th Marine Regiment was moved north to help provide increased security for shaky lines of communications, including Highway 1, which links allied supply lines from Da Nang to the DMZ, to extend the area under control of the South Vietnamese government, and to extend Marine strength from Con Thien west to the Laotian border, where Marine forces are now thin.

The North Vietnamese have been infiltrating in strength through Laos, cutting through the A Shau Valley 40 miles west of Da Nang into Thua Thien or into the Da Nang area.

U.S. military sources in Washington say this infiltration recently has become larger than usual because Hanoi is making sure its embattled units in South Vietnam have adequate fighting replacements for action during the dry weather. Officers also said they think the Communists are getting ready for a wave of attacks on allied outposts, especially in the northernmost provinces, in the next few weeks.

Fire SAMs at B52s
The North Vietnamese just north of the DMZ fired SAM anti-aircraft missiles Thursday at U.S. eight-engine B52 bombers which strike often in the area to knock out enemy artillery and discourage troop buildups.

In 1966 U.S. troops and allies killed an estimated 65,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops. Last year the U.S. military estimates the enemy lost 88,000 killed—nearly 1,700 per week.

The ideal time to get in units to replace those losses is around the end of November, when the monsoon rains halt over Laos and South Vietnam, improving the condition of roads and trails.

Military men have expected the North Vietnamese would move five regiments into South Vietnam by June this year. These units apparently already have penetrated Laos and are holding fast in areas near the western end of the Demilitarized Zone while other enemy troops move down.

On Asia, Persia Gulf

Anglo Decision Holds

LONDON (AP) — The British government means to stand by its decision to quit Southeast Asia and the Persian Gulf by 1971 despite the protests of Asian members of the commonwealth, high government sources reported today.

The British will try to reassure their partners and allies they intend to remain loyal to all treaty and moral obligations to help them in time of war. "Just as Australians and New Zealanders and others came to our aid during two world wars," one authority said, "we shall go to their help if the need should ever arise."

Ideas Pondered

British defense planners already are devising arrangements to convince their friends of their sincerity. Two ideas being pondered:
—British air, land and sea forces will participate once or twice a year in exercises with their Commonwealth partners and allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO).
—A British amphibious task force may be set up to call regularly at friendly countries in the region.

Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew has been trying to organize a joint descent upon London this weekend by Australian, New Zealand and Malaysian leaders to reinforce his demand for modification of the British decision.

He has threatened that Singapore might pull her estimated 200 million pounds $480 million in sterling deposits out of London and invite the Japanese into his island state to take over Britain's leading commercial role.

But high British officials insist that no arguments, either from Commonwealth or American leaders, are likely to compel Prime Minister Harold Wilson's cabinet to modify its basic switch from a global to a mainly European political and military role.

Money Lacking
"We simply haven't the money for these luxuries any more," one source said. The source added that it was "inconceivable" that Secretary of State Dean Rusk had told

The shift of the 3,500-man 5th Marine Regiment from an operating area south of Da Nang gives the Marines three more maneuver battalions—which can cover a wide area and aren't tied down in static defensive positions—in Thua Thien. Only two Marine battalions had been operating in the province generally.

The enlarged Marine force, together with about 12,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen, makes the allied and Communist forces in the DMZ theater of war about equal in infantry manpower, according to intelligence reports.

Marine officers in the know said the 5th Marine Regiment was moved north to help provide increased security for shaky lines of communications, including Highway 1, which links allied supply lines from Da Nang to the DMZ, to extend the area under control of the South Vietnamese government, and to extend Marine strength from Con Thien west to the Laotian border, where Marine forces are now thin.

The North Vietnamese have been infiltrating in strength through Laos, cutting through the A Shau Valley 40 miles west of Da Nang into Thua Thien or into the Da Nang area.

U.S. military sources in Washington say this infiltration recently has become larger than usual because Hanoi is making sure its embattled units in South Vietnam have adequate fighting replacements for action during the dry weather. Officers also said they think the Communists are getting ready for a wave of attacks on allied outposts, especially in the northernmost provinces, in the next few weeks.

The North Vietnamese just north of the DMZ fired SAM anti-aircraft missiles Thursday at U.S. eight-engine B-52 bombers which strike often in the area to knock out enemy artillery and discourage troop buildups.

MAY RESIGN — Pope Paul VI was reported to be considering further changes in his reorganization of top Vatican posts that began with the retirement this week of three high-ranking cardinals. Vatican sources said more resignations could be expected "within the next few days." They named Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi-Masella (top), 88, prefect of the Congregation of Sacraments, and Giuseppe Cardinal Pizzardo (bottom), 90, prefect of the Congregation of Seminaries, as being among those expected to step down from their Curia posts. Anglo Decision Holds

LONDON (AP) — The British government means to stand by its decision to quit Southeast Asia and the Persian Gulf by 1971 despite the protests of Asian members of the commonwealth, high government sources reported today.

The British will try to reassure their partners and allies they intend to remain loyal to all treaty and moral obligations to help them in time of war.

"Just as Australians and New Zealanders and others came to our aid during two world wars," one authority said, "we shall go to their help if the need should ever arise."

Ideas Pondered

British defense planners already are devising arrangements to convince their friends of their sincerity. Two ideas being pondered:

—British air, land and sea forces will participate once or twice a year in exercises with their Commonwealth partners and allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO).

—A British amphibious task force may be set up to call regularly at friendly countries in the region.

Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew has been trying to organize a joint descent upon London this weekend by Australian, New Zealand and Malaysian leaders to reinforce his demands for modification of the British decision.

He has threatened that Singapore might pull her estimated 200 million pounds $480 million in sterling deposits out of London and invite the Japanese into his island state to take over Britain's leading commercial role.

But high British officials insist that no arguments, either from Commonwealth or American leaders, are likely to compel Prime Minister Harold Wilson's cabinet to modify its basic switch from a global to a mainly European political and military role.

Money Lacking

"We simply haven't the money for these luxuries any more," one source said. The source added that it was "inconceivable" that Secretary of State Dean Rusk had told

Foreign Secretary George Brown at their conference in Washington Thursday anything that would lead the Cabinet to change its policy.

Senior diplomats said the British are also supporting attempts initiated by Iran to put together a defense alliance of the Persian Gulf oil states including Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and possibly Bahrain. The Iranians fear that as the British move out, oil-hungry President Gamal Abdel Nasser will move in.
